

AHS opening in danger again?

By Neil Fater

For the third straight year, there's a threat that Andover High School may not be ready to open on time in September. The only difference this year, said Superintendent of Schools Dick Neal, is that the threat is greater than ever.

"There are a number of areas in the High School that must be completed in order to have school ready to open in September," Mr. Neal told the School Committee Tuesday night. "If these areas are not completed we're going to have a very difficult time opening that school in September because all of the classrooms that I'm going to mention (as having problems) are absolutely necessary for the scheduling of the school."

Building Inspector Kaija Gilmore has also identified life safety issues left out of Phase 3, the work supposedly completed and highlighted by the town in a press tour this week.

Mr. Neal said the architects, Earl R. Flansburgh & Associates, told the administration to move into the new administration areas in Phase 3, but shortly afterwards, school officials received a letter from Ms. Gilmore noting that sprinkler and fire alarm systems were missing from that area's design.

"We consider this site hazardous due to required life safety (devices) not being in place, and therefore request that this area be vacated immediately," the letter read, according to Mr. Neal.

The administration is using a small section of that area now, but with the air-conditioning not yet working, "It was about 120 degrees in there," said Mr. Neal. "It's impossible to work in that kind of situation."

Mr. Neal said he was also concerned about the lack of work on the stairs that are to be removed to make room for an expanded cafeteria, the courtyard outside the cafeteria, the mock-up classroom and other classroom areas, and the language lab.

Seifert to take reins of Lawrence schools

By Tamar Carroll

Kenneth R. Seifert of 9 Ivy Lane was appointed acting superintendent of the embattled Lawrence school system Monday night.

The Lawrence School Committee voted 5-1 to appoint Dr. Seifert, who was superintendent of the Andover schools from 1969 to 1990, to oversee the Lawrence schools until at least Aug. 4.

"I am very pleased to accept the confidence placed in me, and I feel that I can make a contribution to the Lawrence schools," Dr. Seifert said.

Dr. Seifert replaced Superintendent James F. Scully, who was placed on paid administrative leave by the School Committee, and who will appear before the committee Aug. 4 for disciplinary hearings in relation to the high school's loss of accreditation and the questionable spending and hiring practices of the city's school department.

Koh named state health commissioner

But can he make the whole state smoke free?

By Neil Fater

An Andover physician named Monday as the next commissioner of the state's Department of Public Health is willing to make the entire state as smoke free as his home town.

"Wouldn't that be great?" asked newly appointed Commissioner Howard Kyongju Koh, Monday. "It would be great if the rest of the state would follow Andover's lead."

Known nationwide for his involvement with cancer prevention, Dr. Koh, of Lincoln Circle East, was a vocal supporter of the 1994 Andover bylaw that banned smoking tobacco in many public places in town. He wrote letters to the Townsmen supporting the bylaw change and spoke in favor of the move at the April 1994 Town Meeting.

He is a chairman, consultant and member of a number of state and national cancer and public-health organizations.

Porking out – Mathew Hass, of Pine Street, tends to the business at hand: Roasting a pig! While some of his downtown neighbors said "Gross," he explained he was brought up on a farm, so pig roasts were the norm. For several years now, Mr. Hass has roasted a pig and invited neighbors in to enjoy the feast. This year, Cindy and Reid Rayner of Chestnut Street offered to keep the pig in their refrigerator because they were going on vacation and their refrigerator was empty. Word has it that the Rayners teased their four young children by suggesting without warning that they go look in the refrigerator for a surprise. Mr. Hass said he begins the roast about 5 a.m. and it's ready by mid-afternoon. Guests who feasted on the pig said it was delicious.

Encephalitis scare a hoax

By Tamar Carroll

Pranksters hung signs on High Plain Road and at Pumps Pond over the past two weeks, warning that mosquitoes in the area were carrying encephalitis, a dangerous virus.

"We had a call from a resident on High Plain Road, who said there was a sign posted across the street that said the mosquitoes in this area had been tested and found to have encephalitis," said Everett F. Penney, director of Public Health. "It looked like a phony sign to me, so I called the state and they verified that it was a fake. It looks like they were put up by pranksters."

That sign, which was taken down by state environmental police, was found on Thursday, July 3. Six or seven more of the same signs were found on Monday, July 7, posted at Pumps Pond. The signs looked official and listed the address of the state Division of Fisheries and Wildlife.

Encephalitis, formally known as eastern equine encephalitis, is a virus usually found in birds. Mosquitoes that bite infected birds can then transfer the virus to other animals or to people.

Symptoms of the disease include a stiff neck, lethargy and muscle aches and pains.

Although it is rare, encephalitis is a serious disease that affects the brain and spinal cord and causes death in 30 percent of the people who become infected with it.

According to Mr. Penney, there have been no reported cases of encephalitis in Massachusetts so far this year.

There are currently no suspects in the hoax, but police officers have been asked to be on alert for anyone hanging up similar signs.

"It is an unfortunate prank because people do have a legitimate reason to be concerned about encephalitis," Mr. Penney said. "The next time they see signs, they may be real, and they'll let their guard down."

A Fourth to remember

By Tamar Carroll

John Drake, of South Main St., gave his great uncle, Robert Ceurvels of Burlington, the perfect gift this Fourth of July.

Mr. Ceurvels, who served in the 101st Airborne Division during World War II, participated in the fight to liberate the Netherlands from Nov. 17 to 28, 1944.

During this battle, known as Operation Market Garden, Mr. Ceurvels' plane, the Clay Pigeon, was shot down over enemy territory.

"He was on the Clay Pigeon plane, which was named that because it was the last plane in the flight and it was fairly easy to shoot down," Mr. Drake said.

Everyone in Mr. Ceurvels' plane had to parachute out, and when Mr. Ceurvels landed, he was captured by German troops.

Mr. Ceurvels was held as a prisoner of war for a year before being liberated by the U.S. Army.

When he returned to the United States, because of a U.S. government slip-up Mr. Ceurvels never received the Orange Lanyard awarded to the servicemen who liberated the Netherlands, an award presented by the people of that country.

Mr. Drake, who has been working in the Netherlands this year, was able to contact the Ministry of Defense of the Netherlands and obtain his great uncle's award for him.

Mr. Drake brought the Orange Lanyard home as a surprise and presented it to his great uncle at a family barbecue on July 4.

"It was a great feeling to be able to give it to him because we all know how much it meant to him," Mr. Drake said.

Mr. Drake's brother, Frank Drake, also of South Main Street, said that Mr. Ceurvels was thrilled to receive the Orange Lanyard.

"It was wonderful to see him get the recognition he deserved for what he did for the country," Frank Drake said. "He was very proud to receive it. I think it is a pretty important thing for him."

Frank Drake also said that receiving the award brought back a lot of memories to his great uncle.

"We sat down and talked for quite a while," Mr. Drake said. "He remembers things that happened like it was yesterday."

Mr. Drake's mother, Joanne Drake of Farrwood Drive, said it was especially appropriate for Mr. Ceurvels to receive his award on Independence Day.

"We were so happy to be able to get together and have John give him the Lanyard on the Fourth," Mrs. Drake said. "It really meant a lot to him."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Teachers frozen out on stipend increase

By Neil Fater

Teachers who spend extra time working with student groups after school next year won't receive any extra pay over last year's rate when their new contract begins in September.

The freeze on stipend pay is sticking in the craw of some teachers, including teachers union president Tom Meyers. Mr. Meyers called the maintenance of stipend pay "an affront to all those people doing the job."

The new contract recently approved by the teachers union and School Committee gives classroom teachers a 2.5 percent increase over last year for their work during school hours. But there is no raise for coaches and leaders of other extra-curricular activities for their after-school efforts.

Considering the after-school hours some teachers work, Mr. Meyers contends coaches and club advisors could make more money asking "Do you want fries with that?"

"If you figured out the hours people put in, you'd probably be better off working at McDonald's, Big and Beefy, or as a security guard," said Mr. Meyers. "You could go to a place like that and not put any thought into what you're doing."

Mr. Meyers contends the teachers who run after-school programs such as the math or soccer teams are well trained in teaching students the subjects or skills they've agreed to supervise. They also spend a good deal of time planning.

"I think that people who are coaches, people who are involved in extra-curricular activities, do an excellent job," said Mr. Meyers.

The School Committee Tuesday night reviewed the approval of more than $100,000 for extra-curricular positions at two of Andover's eight schools.

More than $90,000 is slated for 25 fall coaching positions at Andover High School. This figure includes the cost of the coaches for Andover High's track, football, field hockey, golf, soccer, swim, and volleyball teams, as well as the expense for a cheerleading coach, an athletic business manager and a trainer for all of the teams.

School officials also have approved more than $11,000 for extra-curricular positions at Doherty Middle School. This money will cover the tab for drama coaches and advisors for the math team, student council, out-club, yearbook and student newspaper.

Student shopping spree crashes to a halt in Maine

By Neil Fater

About 150 Phillips Academy summer session students had their Maine shopping-spree field trip come to a crashing halt Sunday, when the third bus in line rear-ended another bus.

An Andover man and 30 Phillips Academy summer session students were treated for injuries and released from hospitals.

Their arms heavy with discounted clothing, the 150 private high school students were returning from a recreational field trip to Maine discount stores such as L.L. Bean.

The accident occurred in Maine on Interstate 95 near the Maine-New Hampshire border as the McKinney Bus Co. buses slowed to pay a toll. The third bus in line could not stop in time because of an air-brake failure, according to the school. No one was admitted to a hospital, school officials said.

"They were mostly examined. Several, or virtually all, of the (injured) students complained of back and neck pain," said Theresa Pease, Phillips Academy director of communications.

"They were X-raying them and giving them advice," regarding how to treat the pain, said Ms. Pease. "There were no serious injuries as it turned out, but it was important to check."

None of the students are from the immediate area, and many are from other countries, she said, adding that Phillips Academy deans and teachers will meet during the summer with the students involved in the accident to make sure they are physically and emotionally OK.

"None of the physicians who examined them seemed to think they needed follow-up care," she said.

Ms. Pease's son, Ben, a 22 year-old faculty chaperone, was one of those examined but is fine, she said.

The highs and lows of school test scores

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Marinel D. McGrath briefed the School Committee Tuesday night on this past spring's IOWA test scores of Andover's third and 10th graders.

All grade three students were given the IOWA tests in reading, spelling and vocabulary this May, in accordance with the Mass. Department of Education requirements.

The results showed 99.4 percent of the third-graders met the state's reading goal of proficiency in reading and writing the English language.

Grade 10 students were given the IOWA Achievement Test for the first time this year.

Andover's 10th-graders performed better than 80 percent of all 10th-graders nationally who took the test, giving them a national percentile rank of 80.

This was lower than school officials had expected.

"I do not think they look as good as they should," Superintendent Richard Neal said. "They should be higher."

Dream treehouse a reality for Andover boy

By Perry Colmore

Nine-year-old Yogan Patel, son of Chiman and Joshana Patel of Andover, climbed into the treehouse of his dreams Tuesday for the very first time. Yogan, who has been diagnosed with bone cancer, had his favorite wish granted by the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Boston.

Yogan, who will be a fourth-grader at South School, cut the ribbon Tuesday to celebrate the building of the treehouse in his back yard.

Yogan drew a picture of his dream treehouse to show volunteers from the foundation. He modeled it after the one he saw at the exhibit in the Magic Kingdom at Walt Disney World. The 10-foot by 10-foot-square structure, for which he selected the name, "Yogan's Fun House," was painted his favorite colors, yellow and red.

Yogan chose signs that hung on the treehouse: "Beware mad dog," "No girls allowed," and others.

The interior of the treehouse features cathedral ceilings, stained wood floors, shelving for his new Legos and enough room for sleep-over parties with his friends. The treehouse has a ladder and a set of stairs to allow Yogan access to his hideaway, should he become unable to climb the ladder himself.

Yogan's friends, Raj Thakran, Jay Thakrah, Yatin Patel and Krishen Taylor, were at Tuesday's opening ceremonies. One well-wisher, Elliot Aronson of Chestnut Street, brought along his 9-year-old sheepdog, Melord Bearsly. Mr. Aronson managed to get Bearsly into the treehouse. Bertucci's delivered a pizza to the treehouse. Yogan's 3-year-old brother, Niles, was on hand for the festivities.

"You have to see the house," said Mr. Aronson. "It's got shutters; there's a lamp in there; it's wonderful."

Paula Leed of Andover, a volunteer with Make-A-Wish, helped make the wish come true, along with Grasso Construction of North Andover, Jackson Lumber and White Street Paint of Lawrence, Lego Systems, Bertucci's and volunteer Janet Pallone of North Andover.

"It's the first treehouse we've ever granted a wish for," said Karen Kopp, executive director of the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Boston. "So many kids want to go to Disney World. I love these kind of wishes; it will be a treasure his whole family will enjoy."

More than 43,000 wishes have been completed by the foundation since 1980, and 6,490 wishes were fulfilled last year alone.

Officer Joe Ouellette walks final beat

By Neil Fater

One night, Officer Joe Ouellette and his partner approached a smoke-filled car parked in the woods.

When the teens in the car rolled down their windows, the smoke was so thick and the odor so strong it caused Officer Ouellette to start sneezing. In a booming voice he told the teens to give him their drugs, and they quickly did so. But even in their altered state, the youths were bewildered. How did he know they had drugs in the first place?

"I said, 'I'm allergic to it. Every time I smell it, I sneeze,'" said Officer Ouellette. "They believed it."

Officer Ouellette - hanging up the badge.

ing Officer Joe Ouellette has a nose for the crime business. According to others this week, he also has a nose for dealing with people.

But after nearly 25 years as an Andover patrolman, Officer Ouellette retired Tuesday, at the age of 55. Between his military service and years as an Andover policeman he had enough time on the job to take early retirement.

Interestingly, Officer Ouellette spent his last day the same way he had spent his first day in Andover - walking the downtown beat, an area he calls "the square."

"I've made a lot of friends up here, and the people have been very good to me. On those cold, cold days when I walked the square, people had coffee for me," he said. "I'm going to miss a lot of the people up here. I'm going to miss a lot of the guys that I worked with too."

In particular, he said he'd miss his former partners Jack Milne and Hank Picard and long-time public servants Dennis Lane, Kevin Lynch, Richard Enos and Dave Cantone. He said one of the best changes to the force since he arrived was the addition of female officers.

Still, asked Tuesday around 3:30 p.m., after 25 years how it felt to have two hours left as one of Andover's men in blue, he didn't hesitate.

"It feels terrific," he said.

Officer Ouellette said he plans to spend part of his newfound time camping, riding his motorcycle and fishing. Most of those are interests he shares with his former partner Jack Milne.

"Joe's the type that if he sees a lady trying to get in her car with a grocery bag, he would help open the door. He liked to do the little things that wouldn't always get done," said Officer Milne. "What he's done in the center of town with the merchants, they'll be hard pressed to find another like him.

"Joe is very dedicated to his job and takes pride in what he does. His reports were always perfect. He always looked perfect," said Officer Milne. "He has a lot of pride in himself. He has a lot of pride in his uniform. He was proud to be a police officer."

Officer Milne said he expected both police and merchants would miss the man with the polished badge, shiny pins, and creased shirt who patrolled the town for so long.

"He's going to be sorely missed," agreed Lisa Wilson, who works in Old Town Hall. "He's just a wonderful ambassador for the downtown."

When people saw the sign in Ms. Wilson's window saying goodbye to him this week, they came in to tell stories about him, she said.

"People have gone out of their way to say he's going to be missed. I have to agree with them," she said. "I think he's genuinely kind and cares. If he sees a person who looks like they need assistance, he makes the extra effort."

"You work with a man all these years and you get to know his mannerisms," said Officer Milne. "When we rode as partners I felt very secure with him. I think anyone who rode with him would say the same thing. You could depend on him."

An Open Letter to the People of Andover

From Stone/Congress, A Joint Venture

General Contractors for the Renovations and Additions to Andover High School

Dear Andover Citizens and Taxpayers:

We at Stone/Congress have previously informed the public about the issues surrounding the Andover High School construction project. Now we feel the need once again to keep the public informed of the continuing problems at the school. The people deserve to hear all points of view and to have access to all documents to make informed decisions about how this project should proceed.

After Phase 3 of the project (renovation of the east half of the third and fourth floors of the school) was completed according to specifications on June 6, the town had to issue numerous change orders to correct errors by the architect that put the school in violation of the building code. This same situation occurred last fall in Phase 2C, adjacent to the cafeteria, where code violations in the plans and specs held up occupancy for more than two months. Then the additional work had to be halted because the area in question was being occupied, contrary to the building inspector's orders. The additional work required will cost the taxpayers an estimated $20,000, and there is still a question of whether Phase 3 will be ready by the fall, because of still-uncorrected building code violations in the plans. The remedial work needed to correct these violations in the plans has, even as of this date, not been authorized by the town.

Then, there is Subphase 4B (southwest portion of the third and fourth floors). The architect, in an attempt to correct the erroneous phasing of the project, added the subphase last April 15 because the original plans did not provide access from the new Science Building to the Phase 3 area during the construction of Phases 4, 5 and 6. This was completely avoidable. Stone/Congress had brought this design error to the attention of the School Building Committee, the Architect and Mead Consulting as early as February 1996, warning that it, like so many other design problems we have encountered on the project, was technically insupportable and would interfere with orderly phasing. Our cautionary alert was ignored. We were forced to cancel and reschedule work on the subphase on June 25. Five days later, June 30, the town and Mead Consulting called for more changes. The new drawings submitted by the architect for these changes are, again, incomplete, inaccurate and contain numerous errors.

All this is adding to the costs and having further negative impact on the schedule of the balance of the project. We had looked forward to the summer months, with the students on vacation, to correct some of the problems. However, that hoped-for advantage has largely been lost by our having to address, in a last-minute-crises fashion, situations that should never have been created, including, but not limited to, having to remove the badly designed stairway in the cafeteria.

The approved additional costs for the project to date, according to Mead Consulting's report dated June 4 is $3,095,804. In addition, the costs and claims currently under dispute exceed $2,000,000 and are climbing with the current "fire drill" mode of operation imposed upon the job by the town and the architect. We have been warning that added costs could amount to $5 million, a projection that is becoming real. We have asked the town, the consulting firm and the architects over and over again to halt and redesign the project to correct incomplete and inaccurate documents. They have refused. It is in the best interest of the people that they insist the town officials get a handle on the project immediately.

We warned the town not to continue with the project in early 1996, when the grossly inadequate and inaccurate nature of the plans, specifications and phasing became obvious. We then warned the town not to start Phase 3 for the same reasons. We again warned the town not to start Phases 4, 5 and 6 for the same reasons. Now, $3.1 million later, and with no end in sight to the overruns, while we demolish hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of new construction because of illegal design, the town officials still refuse to address proactively the source of the overruns, all at the expense of the taxpayers and the contractors. The taxpayers of Andover need to take action to stop this gross abuse of their money now.

Very truly yours,

William A. Nicholson, President
Congress Construction Company Inc.

rooms, the areas with the least amount of renovation work being done to them, are the areas most in danger of not opening in September, said Mr. Neal.

"I was told today by Mike McCormick (of Mead Consulting, the project managers) that there are huge holes in the design plans for these areas, and the architects are working on this but the plans haven't been completed as yet. (Tuesday), there was no one working in either of those areas," said Mr. Neal.

Mr. Neal said when he toured the entire school Tuesday he saw only eight workers. School Committee member Tim McCarron said he also saw a minimal amount of work being completed during his tour.

While Mr. Neal indicated problems with the designs might be the reason for the perceived lack of manpower, Mr. McCarron said it might be because the contractor sees legal benefits to slowing down the work.

The contractor, Stone-Congress, filed a lawsuit against the town and the architect in 1995 saying the architect's designs were so poor that the building could not be built as drawn.

Stone-Congress also bought a half-page advertisement in this week's edition of the Townsman, and in what the firm called an "open letter" to the community, contend that mistakes by the architects are costing the town millions in delays and cost overruns.

Bill Nicholson, president of Congress Construction, one-half of Stone-Congress, denied there was a deliberate slowdown, noting Stone-Congress has offered to resolve the problems through mediation or negotiation, but the town and architects have refused.

"We are not running this job in a legal or court-orientated fashion. We never have and never will slow down a project based on a legal theory."

Mr. Nicholson said the reason school officials may believe there aren't many people working on the site, is because of frequent design changes by the architect. He said the remaining phases of the project have been completely rephased twice since April. Work was stopped in those areas June 13, and a new phasing schedule was issued June 27, he said. But June 30, the contractor was given "sweeping change orders changing the scope and with a battery of problems, including deteriorated facilities, accusations of poor management by state educational officials, and the threat of a state takeover.

Dr. Seifert's first priority is to prepare the schools, many of which are in poor physical condition, for the return of students at the end of August.

Next is to get the high school reaccredited and to work with state officials to avoid state receivership of the school system.

Dr. Seifert, 62, has been consulting for the Lawrence schools for several years.

"He has a tremendous amount of experience in running public schools and the temperament to bring people together and begin the healing process," said Lawrence Mayor Mary Claire Kennedy. "He has the personality and the style to walk in and take control."

School Committee members hope Dr. Seifert will be able to bring the staff together to get the schools up and running in the next month.

Dr. Seifert was known in Andover for developing the A.I.R.S., Andover Individualized Reading System, reading program, which was tailored to match each student's needs and helped increase student performance on reading tests.

"He was particularly strong in curriculum innovations," said Donald Robb, of York Street, who served on the School Committee during Dr. Seifert's term. "Another of his strengths was managing a staff. That would be something that Lawrence could profit from."

Andover Superintendent Richard Neal, also a School Committee member during Dr. Seifert's term, said Dr. Seifert was effective in developing long and short range plans and getting people to carry them out.

"He was an excellent manager and an excellent planner, which is something that will be important to his work in Lawrence," Mr. Neal said.

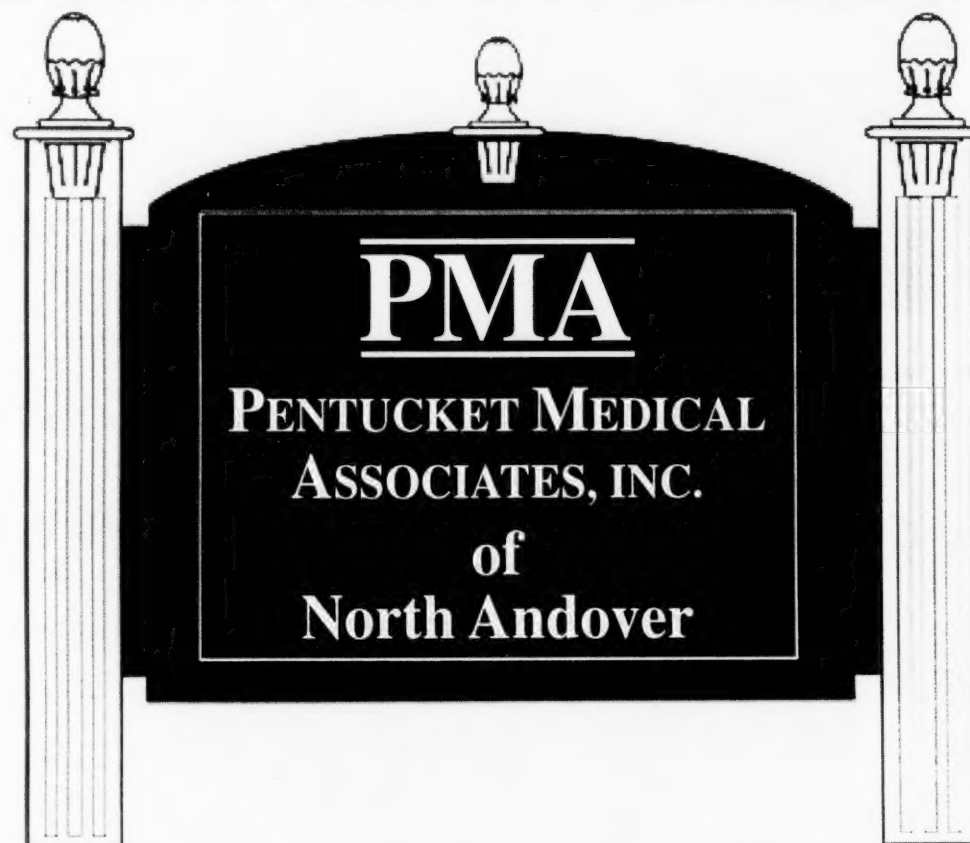

Dr. Seifert is also remembered in town for his work with former state representative Susan Tucker, of Farrwood Drive, on plans for a Collaborative School, which would have enrolled students from both Lawrence and Andover. The school was never built, but Ms. Tucker said that in working on that project, Dr. Seifert developed ties with state education officials that may help convince them that the city should remain in control of its school system.

Dr. Seifert said that he hopes a state takeover of the schools can be prevented.

"I have no illusions that this will be a peaceful road," Dr. Seifert said. "However, I do think that there are some possibilities in avoiding this. I believe that it is the absolute last thing that should be done."

Dr. Seifert said he anticipates his term will last past August 4th, but he has no intentions of remaining superintendent.

Morris honored by UMass alums

By Tamar Carroll

When he joined the UMass-Amherst Alumni Association Board of Directors in 1989, the university's budget had been gutted by recession and the state's fiscal crisis.

When he left this past spring after three years as association president, the university was back on solid financial ground. It was enjoying more legislative support than it had seen in years. And the association itself had a budget that had grown from a reserve of only a few thousand to several million, enough to provide annual scholarships and grants for programs in athletics and academics.

So it wasn't a hard choice for the association to present Attorney Michael Morris of Abbott Street with the Chancellor's Medal, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst's highest honor, for his work as president of the association.

"The reason Michael Morris was awarded the medal is that this university has been around for 130 years, and in that time there have been very few alumni that have had the kind of impact on us that Mike has had," said

Mr. Morris, Class of 1963, majored in English at UMass and belonged to the Sig Epsilon fraternity. Mr. Morris said he looks back on his days at UMass, "a long, long time ago," with much fondness.

Raytheon wins $484m contract with Saudi Arabia

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia has awarded a $484 million direct sale contract to Raytheon Company for technical assistance, training and logistics support for the Kingdom's Patriot and Hawk air defense systems.

This contract, which is reflected in Raytheon's backlog, will provide technical assistance at Patriot and Hawk sites and service depots located throughout the Kingdom; training and instruction to operate and maintain Patriot and Hawk equipment; and logistics support for spares and modifications during the term of the contract.

The contract, which runs through December 1999, supports other contracts awarded to Raytheon by the U.S.

Smith & Nephew help make surgery simpler

With one swing, any golfer could suffer a debilitating shoulder injury, which sometimes translates into a full year of recovery. But in an effort to cut that recovering time, Smith & Nephew's Endoscopy Division launched the Acufex Suture Punch, a new procedural simplicity with the advantages of braided suture, enabling surgeons to arthroscopically mend torn shoulder tendons and ligaments.

Golfers, baseball players and swimmers constantly put intense strain on their shoulders. This can lead to two common injuries: 1. chronic shoulder instability in which the ligaments tear away from the bone (a surgical technique called the Bankart Repair reattaches the ligaments to the glenoid bone); and 2. tears in the rotator cuff, the tendons that attach shoulder muscles to bone.

When a tear occurs in the tendons, the muscles weaken causing friction between the shoulder's articular cartilage and bones. Patients can experience immobility of the arm and searing pain.

The Acufex Suture Punch's simple action enables surgeons to make shoulder suturing a quicker and easier process than other devices permit.

The Acufex Suture Punch is inserted into the shoulder, then the instrument's jaws are opened around the tissue to be sutured. A needle with attached suture is passed smoothly through the tissue from the lower to upper part of the jaw. The punch is retracted and the surgeon ties a knot in the thread away from the site. The Acufex Suture Punch uses a braided thread material, which is easier to handle and tie and won't break like other sutures.

Patients who undergo arthroscopic repairs may have shorter hospital stays, less postoperative pain and a faster recovery than those who undergo more invasive procedures.

Smith & Nephews is a manufacturer of endoscopic devices for minimally invasive surgery. The Andover firm is part of Smith & Nephew, plc, a worldwide health care company headquartered in London, England, offering a range of products in the area of wound management and orthopedics.

In other news, the company has signed a five-year corporate agreement with AmeriNet, covering the full range of Smith & Nephew products. The agreement, which is the first of its kind for both companies, is designed to contain AmeriNet members' supply cost while improving market share for the Smith & Nephew North America divisions.

The contract, which became effective April 1, involves seven Smith & Nephew divisions, including Orthopedics, ENT, Endoscopy, Rehabilitation, Wound Management, Casting, and DonJoy. These divisions will provide AmeriNet members with preferred pricing. Smith & Nephew has offices in Andover.

"Smith & Nephew provides the largest selection of orthopedic products in the health care industry," said Brian Splan, president of the Health-care Division. "This new customer-supplier partnership with AmeriNet addresses our mutual strategic goals with significant benefits available to both of us."

Joseph W. Mulroy, president of AmeriNet, Inc., said: "The cost-saving potential for our members is staggering through this unique new agreement. Orthopedics, once an off-limit area for groups, is now an attractive money-saver for AmeriNet members because of this agreement."

AmeriNet, based in Providence, R.I., is the nation's largest membership-based group purchasing organization and is owned by three shareholders: Hospital Shared Services, Intermountain Health Care, and Vector Healthsystems. Founded in June 1986, AmeriNet is recognized as an innovative leader and is providing its members with cost-reduction programs.

Army Missile Command under the Foreign Military Sales program.

William H. Swanson, executive vice president and general manager of Raytheon Electronic Systems, said the award "reinforces the strong relationship which exists between Raytheon and the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. As we have for more than 30 years, Raytheon remains committed to providing the Royal Saudi Air Defense Forces with equipment and services of the highest quality."

Marine Lance Corporal Patrick F. Robb of Andover recently completed his two-week tour of duty at Coral Harbor, Bahamas.

Lcpl. Patrick F. Robb

Of the more than 200 people stationed at Coral Harbor over a two-month period, Lcpl Robb was the only Marine to be commended on site.

He received the Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal for "outstanding service while assigned to Joint Operations Training 97 Coral Harbor, Bahamas from 25 April 1997 to 10 May 1997." His unit was assisting in the construction of a maintenance facility for the Royal Bahamian Defense Force.

A portion of Lcpl Robb's commendation read as follows: "During this period, Lcpl Robb demonstrated a take-charge attitude in the completion stage of construction of the maintenance facility. Lcpl Robb's ability to learn quickly and move forward enabled him to learn construction techniques, and also to lead 21 other Marines. Without Lcpl Robb's dedication, experience and attention to detail, the job would not have been a complete success. Your willingness to immediately tackle the next job that was presented and your consistent hard work was a shining example to other Marines.

"Lcpl Robb's conduct and perseverance reflect a great credit upon himself and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and the United States Naval Service."

Lcpl Robb is based at Westover

TAKE CARE WHEN HIRING ACCOUNTANTS

For many small businesses, hiring an accountant is a right of passage. It signifies that your business has gone beyond a mere concept to a viable entity. But what should you look for in an accountant? And where should you look to find one that can help your business?

According to most accounting professionals, the best time to hire an accountant is before the financial aspects of your business start to become a burden on you. In fact, many accountants say, it's best to have an accountant before you even form your business. A good accountant can help get your business off on the right foot by working with you to develop a business plan and helping you submit the necessary paperwork to get your business up and running.

Finding a qualified accountant. In searching for an accountant, your best bet is to start by seeking recommendations because they usually have a good feel for the industry and know accountants that are proficient in your particular business.

In addition, you may also want to talk to your banker, attorney, insurance agent or other professionals you use or associate with often. These people are often good sources of quality referrals.

When soliciting names from others — whether they're in your field or not — you may want to ask some of the following questions: What type of work did the accountant perform? Was the business owner satisfied with the accountant's work? Would the business owner work with the accountant again? Would he or she recommend the accountant to another business owner?

When you've compiled a list of qualified accountants, set up interviews with your most promising prospects. During the interview, you need to find out what experience the account has had in your line of business. Try to get a sense of whether the accountant is geared to your business and has a good understanding of your industry.

Remember, the accountant you hire will likely become part of your business' management team. Therefore, the most essential question you should ask your prospective accountants is, "What can you do for me?" In many cases, particularly if you're hiring a CPA, you'll want someone who is abreast of trends in business management and will be able to offer advice on how you can take your business up to the next level of efficiency and competitiveness. In short, the ideal candidate should be able to help you grow your business.

Once you've established a short list of prospective accountants, ask for references, and check them out thoroughly.

Hiring for bigger businesses. If your company is big enough that you have more specialized accounting needs, you may want to consider looking at an accounting firm, rather than a sole practitioner. In doing so, you'll still want to apply many of the hiring principles discussed above to your search.

When shopping for an accounting firm, keep in mind the size of your firm and the scope of your accounting needs. Your decision here will be based largely on whether you can imagine your business' accounting needs changing and growing. In many cases, small accounting firms — like most other small firms — will offer service with a more personal touch, something that might not always be available to you from larger accounting firms.

On the other hand, a larger accounting firm will likely offer a wider range of expertise. And if you're looking to benefit from the latest managerial and financial accounting techniques, a larger firm may be right for you.

Whatever you choose to do, remember that your accountant — whether it be a sole practitioner or a Big Six firm — is a vital business partner and advisor who must be committed to helping your company grow and prosper.

MEDICALLY SUPERVISED WEIGHT LOSS WORKS.

"I HAD SUFFERED ENOUGH."
"On a Whim, I Picked Up the Phone and Called Beverly Hills."
 "I was surprised how friendly and understanding they were. No high pressure sales effort, no rushing me. When I went to their clinic they took me by the hand. On all the other programs, no one had ever cared if I lost weight. But they did care about me at Beverly Hills. They knew the pain... they had suffered weight problems themselves in the past. As the days went by, and my weight dropped off, I knew my suffering was coming to an end. My life came back to me. Not since I was in my teens have I looked and felt this good. Mine is a true story and I hope it inspires those who also suffer from a weight problem. If you've suffered enough, please do call Beverly Hills."* nature of the demolition on phases 4, 5 and 6, three days after we were released to do the work," said Mr. Nicholson.

"What laymen may not realize is that there are at least two weeks of disconnections of electrical, plumbing and gas before a contractor goes out there with a full crew, otherwise water will flow on the floor and fires could start," said Mr. Nicholson.

Mr. McCormick confirmed these design changes, but downplayed the danger of school not opening on time in the fall.

"Yes, there were several changes issued late in the game. But we would like to see more manpower on the site and, in fact, there are more workers today," he said Wednesday morning. "We're still talking in the twenties (workers at the site)."

A number of meetings have been set up to deal with the slowed summer work, and Mr. Nicholson said he welcomes more.

"We would welcome the opportunity to meet with the School Committee to explain to them the sources of the problems Andover High School is continuing to endure," he said.

Stone-Congress, Mead Consulting, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, and architect Earl R. Flansburgh planned to meet today, Thursday.

The School Building Committee is scheduled to meet Wednesday, July 23.

"We're hoping to establish a dialog with Stone-Congress so we can finish what needs to be done by the end of the summer," said Mr. McCormick of today's meeting.

"I think this threat is not as dangerous as the last two summers. There's just simply not as much work," he said. "This summer, all of the critical items are already in place."

Mr. McCormick said workers were engaged in some of the work Mr. Neal expressed concern about Tuesday.

With regard to the stairs to be removed from the center of the cafeteria, he said "They're cutting the rails off now as we speak."

The School Committee voted 3-0, with David Birnbach and Eric Nadworny absent, to name Tim McCarron as the committee member to serve on the School Building Committee, when that opportunity arrives later this summer.

These teachers were chosen, with 405 other nominees, from approximately 70,000 active teachers in Massachusetts.

The award will be presented in September. Students, parents, administrators and other teachers offered nominations as part of the open nomination process.

***

Approximately 100 eighth-grade students from Doherty Middle School and their teachers visited the Statehouse and met with their legislators on June 4. Rep. Barry Finegold and Sen. John O'Brien gave the students a personal tour of the Statehouse. The students sat at members' desks in the House of Representatives' chamber and asked Rep. Finegold and Sen. O'Brien questions about state government, current issues and their personal lives.

Rep. Finegold, an alumnus of Doherty Middle, shared his memories as a student at the school, including some experiences he had had with their current teachers. Hosting the eighth-grade group was significant for Rep. Finegold as his sister, Diana Finegold, was in the class. Sen. O'Brien told the group about his family and the schedule he maintains as senator.

***

Three Doherty Middle seventh-graders were among the students from Massachusetts honored for outstanding verbal and mathematical abilities at a ceremony at Boston University June 8. The students' talents were discovered by the Institute for the Academic Advancement of Youth's annual talent search last winter. They scored well above the mean for high school seniors on the College Board's SAT-1 verbal and mathematical tests.

The students are William Chen, Christina Kelleher and Andrew Ong.

Andrew Ong was also the recipient of a one-semester scholarship to Bradford College for scoring in the 700-800 range for math before age 13.

An Adventure, Art and Empowerment Day Camp for girls ages 9-12 will held Aug. 4-8 and Aug. 11-15 at Cuvilly Farm in Ipswich. The Senate enacted an $18.3 billion fiscal year 1998 budget plan and sent it to Gov. William Weld for his approval. Included in the proposal was an amendment offered by Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, doubling the appropriation for the college preparation program for Lawrence High School students administered by the University of Massachusetts Lowell.

The amendment directs the city of Lawrence to expend $150,000 from its state education aid for the college preparation program at the university. This money is intended to match the appropriation spent each year by the university.

Sen. O'Brien said, "The need for these types of programs is evident in light of recent reports on the high incidence of remedial education at our state colleges and universities. By matching money appropriated by the university for the same purpose, this amendment would allow more students the opportunity to adequately prepare for college."

SHOW
AND SELL

Realtors are often asked "What is the best way to show and sell a home?" Almost every Realtor can tell you a story about meeting with a prospective seller who has just completed a lot of work to prepare their home for the market! It can be difficult for a Realtor to tell the seller that their renovations were not the best changes to effectively market their home.

If you are considering making any improvement prior to selling your home, the best advice is to consult with your Realtor before you make any changes. An experienced Realtor can provide you with information that can help you decide what kind of improvements will set the stage for a sale. Whether it is paint and wallpaper, remodeling the bathrooms, or updating the kitchen, your Realtor can guide you toward "neutral" choices which can assist the buyer's imagination.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult me at Prudential Howe and Doherty, Realtors. Please call me at 475-5100, or stop by my office at 12 Bartlet Street. Pam Lebowitz has been a real estate professional for over 8 years.

UMass honors Morris

"It was a great place to go to school," he said. "I loved it there. Unquestionably it was a great education and I made great friends who are my friends today."

Mr. Morris said the large cuts in the university's operating budget during the late 1980s and early 1990s prompted him to become active in the Alumni Association.

"In the late '80s, when Massachusetts underwent its recession, the university was crippled by terrible budgetary slashes," Mr. Morris said.

"It made me, and others like me, very angry. The university had been very good to me and my family. What was disturbing was the fact that with all the university has done for this state and its economy, for all its high favorability ratings, and despite the fact that it had been a friend to so many, when the university needed a friend, it had none," Mr. Morris said.

In 1989, Mr. Morris was appointed to the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, which represents the 170,000 alumni of the Amherst campus. He campaigned for the university, and was subsequently elected vice president and, in 1994, association president.

As president, Mr. Morris worked to raise private and legislative support for the university across the state, to help repair the damage to the university that occurred in the late '80s.

During his three-year term, the association more than tripled its budget, allowing it to begin its own grant initiative, which honors programs at the university that have demonstrated excellence.

"I am happy to say it is now a multi-million dollar agency, when it had been limping along with $3,000-$4,000 in reserves," Mr. Morris said. "We have made 25 awards in the last three years, including those to the nationally-ranked women's crew, volleyball and basketball teams."

Those awards have helped the Athletic Department achieve greater equity among men and women's athletic teams, so that the university now ranks in the top 10 NCAA Division I schools for Title IX compliance.

In addition to raising funds for the association and the university, Mr. Morris served on the search committee that appointed former state Senate president William Bulger president of the UMass system. He also worked on two programs, the Commonwealth (honors) College and the University Scholars Program, which are designed to increase academic excellence at the University.

Mr. Morris' greatest achievement as president, the garnering of legislative support for the university, is reflected in its 1998 budget, which includes an 8 percent increase from the state Legislature, one of the largest increases in the school's history.

His efforts have also helped bring to the university the national recognition it now enjoys with its recent ranking among the top 20 research universities in the U.S.

"Mike has taken the association and really moved it to a new level," Mr. Feudo said. "It is now a thriving, powerful organization that has the ability to influence what happens to and for the university."

Mr. Morris, who chose not to run for reelection when his term ended this spring, said he is looking forward to having more time to spend with his family.

"The job requires an extremely high energy level, and I was not sure I had enough left to give it," Mr. Morris said. "I'll have more time for my partnership now, and to spend with my grandchildren."

But he said he really enjoyed his term. "The thing I enjoyed most was meeting UMass students," Mr. Morris said. "It never ceases to amaze me what they accomplish. There are 750 alumni in Andover and they range from Roger Jenkins, a leading liver transplant surgeon, to attorneys Carl Berger and Burt Shaker, to great businessmen like Steve Leed."

Morris scholarship created

In addition to receiving the Chancellor's Medal, Mr. Morris was honored by the association with a scholarship in his name for minority students in the Merrimack Valley.

"We sat at a board meeting and tried to decide what we could do to show our love and appreciation for Mike. We tried to think of what matters to Mike more than anything else," Mr. Feudo said.

"We looked at all the time, energy, and money Mike had spent introducing kids from the Lawrence Boys and Girls Club to UMass, to show them that college is a viable option for them. It made us realize that a scholarship for a minority student from the Merrimack Valley was the best thing we could do for him."

Mr. Morris, who grew up in Lawrence and attended the Boys Club himself, has worked for years to encourage members of the Boys and Girls Clubs to continue their educations at UMass.

Each year, a minority student from this area will receive $1,250 scholarship in Mr. Morris' name.

Mr. Morris' wife, author Mary McGarry Morris, said that both she and her husband are thrilled with the honor.

"He was absolutely stunned. I had tears in my eyes," Ms. McGarry Morris said. "I think that is a wonderful culmination and tribute to all his efforts. He really believes in the importance of higher education and that it be available to everyone."

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

CROWN JEWELS

If one or more of a patient's front teeth are substantially damaged, or if the back teeth are in such poor condition that they cannot accept onlays (which are essentially large fillings), the dentist most likely will recommend restoration with an artificial crown. Sometimes referred to as "caps," these restorations are always used to restore teeth that have been treated by root canal therapy. The materials preferred for crowns on visible teeth are a core of gold, or other metal covered with a tooth-colored material such as plastic or porcelain. On less-visible molars, gold or other cast metal is used because the chewing surfaces of the rear teeth are best served by a material that is stable, durable, and long-lasting.

Even with crowns and the many other advances in dental technology today, the best opportunity to retain your teeth for a lifetime and the best insurance for a healthy oral profile is sticking to a routine of brushing, flossing, and professional care. If you can't remember the last time you visited the dentist, it's probably time you called us at 475-2431, 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93.

P.S. Porcelain is the tooth-colored restorative material that most closely approximates the look and hardness of natural enamel.

Career camp opens at Voke Tech

By Tamar Carroll

So your kids have already been to camp to learn how to swim, paddle a canoe, tie knots, make bead bracelets and have food fights.

How about a summer camp that offers a bit of career training?

That is the goal of The Greater Lawrence Technical School on River Road, which is hosting C.A.M.P. 57, designed to expose middle school students to vocational education and potential career paths.

"We want to give an opportunity for all the students to learn what a vocational school is all about," said Camp Director Rebecca Puentes. "It is a chance for them to explore different shops, to meet other students from different backgrounds and to have a great time. Mainly, we want them to have fun and learn."

C.A.M.P. 57 (Career Awareness Maximizes Potential) will celebrate the end of its first two-week session today, Thursday, with a family picnic.

Nearly 230 students from Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover are enrolled in each of the camp's three sessions this summer.

The sixth- and seventh-grade students choose one career path from a list of nine possibilities to explore each session. They include machine technology, carpentry, electronics, hairstyling and nail design, chef training/baking, fashion design and textiles, graphics and desktop publishing, medical and health occupations and electrical.

The camp runs Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to noon for two weeks. The students are instructed in the careers and participate in athletic activities such as swimming, water polo, basketball, volleyball, softball and kickball.

In the shop classes, which are taught by teachers from the high school, the students work on projects that they can take home with them, and learn about employment opportunities in each field. Students enrolled in carpentry make clocks to take home, while those in the machine area make hammers and key chains and those in the chef training/baking make pizzas and cookies.

The registration fee for the camp is $10 per session and includes the project materials and a T-shirt.

Barbara Donaghue, grants manager and member of AHS class of '69, said that a $6,000 grant from the Greater Lawrence School to Careers Initiative helped the school finance the $60,000 cost of the summer school and still keep the registration fee low for the students.

"We also received a $1,250 grant from the Community Foundation in North Andover," Ms. Donaghue said. "The rest of it is funded from the school."

Several Andover residents are involved in the camp.

Robert Cashman, of Main Street, teaches the electronic shop. His students learn how to solder and put together a siren/Morse code oscillator to take home with them.

"They are given a circuit board, and they have to put the parts on it themselves," Mr. Cashman said. "They identify the components, mount them and solder the connections."

As an incentive, the top seven students in Mr. Cashman's class, based on attitude, performance and attendance, get to add an FM transmitter to their sirens.

Joe Robels, 13, entering eighth grade at Doherty Middle School, is one of three Andover residents in Mr. Cashman's class.

Joe said he picked the electronics shop because he wanted to be able to fix his VCR.

He said he is learning a lot at camp and thinks he will be able to fix it soon.

"I like it a lot," Joe said. "My favorite part is the sports, especially basketball."

Vanessa Ramos, 14, of Andover, is also enjoying Mr. Cashman's class.

"I really like it," Ms. Ramos said. "I might want to go into this when I grow up."

ton Avenue, who directs the camp's athletic activities, said, "So far, it is a great bunch of kids and they have had a lot of fun."

Marilyn Fitzgerald, a Washington Avenue resident who coaches the AHS girls' swim team, is the pool director at the school, both during the school year and during the camp sessions.

"This is a big step in showing people what we are all about," Ms. Fitzgerald said. "All the kids are getting excited about what's going on, and we're having as much fun as the kids."

Koh named state health commissioner

and tobacco control put him on the forefront of today's most pressing public health issues," said Gov. William Weld, while announcing Dr. Koh's appointment. "He is one of Massachusetts' preeminent medical experts and we are fortunate to have him aboard as steward of the state's public health policy."

Dr. Koh will replace Commissioner David Mulligan, who will leave the high-level position in September.

"It's a fantastic honor. I'm thrilled to have the opportunity to serve the state," said Dr. Koh, at his home Monday night. "I'd like to make the state the healthiest state in the country if I could."

Dr. Koh calls tobacco control "probably the number one prevention control area that my commission should address."

In addition to his involvement with numerous public-health organizations (see sidebar), Dr. Koh is also Boston University Medical Center's director of cancer prevention and control, and a professor at B.U.'s schools of medicine and public health.

"Howard Koh is more than a wonderful physician. He is a scholar, an educator and a healer," said Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci. "He will serve as a strong voice for the good health of all Massachusetts citizens."

Board certified in medical oncology, dermatology, hematology and internal medicine, Dr. Koh has also received a masters degree in public health.

"I think I'm the only physician in the United States who has a quadruple certification and a public health degree," he said, matter-of-factly.

Dr. Koh and his wife, Claudia Anne Arrigg, an ophthalmologist, are the parents of three children - 14-year-old Steven, 12-year-old Daniel, and 9-year-old Katie.

Speaking on behalf of the no-smoking bylaw at 1994 Town Meeting he remarked, "Cancer prevention is something everybody in this hall can contribute to by voting on this article."

As commissioner, he said he'll continue to promote the message that everyone can help prevent disease, and everyone can play a role.

"Being a spokesperson for prevention in the state is a key role I can play," he said. "Lots of people in the community can advance and support those (prevention) programs."

Dr. Koh currently plays a role as chairman of the Mass. Coalition for a Healthy Future, an organization responsible for the 1992 special cigarette tax that annually directs $67 million to tobacco control and education efforts throughout the state.

He is a strong proponent of preventative medicine and cancer screenings.

Despite the demands of his new position, Dr. Koh said he wants to continue working with skin-cancer patients.

"I'll have to cut down, but I still want to see patients. I've worked very hard to attain that expertise," he said. "I also have many patients who depend on me and I'd hate to break that tie. I hope (the position) won't change my life too much. My priorities will still be the same.

"I will be more visible because of the role. I may be involved in more controversy" because of the controversial nature of some public health issues," he said. "I hope I can follow the same mission I have in academia and bring it to the department."

A Korean-American, Dr. Koh said he will also promote minority health issues as commissioner.

Some minorities and recent immigrants have problems with health care access because of cultural barriers such as a language difference, he said. Because state and national health surveys are done completely in English, Dr. Koh said the health concerns of those who speak another language can go undocumented and therefore unaddressed.

"Seventy percent of Korean and Vietnamese men smoke, and my guess is Korean-American and Vietnamese-Americans have the some problem, it's just not well documented," he said.

A career spent fighting, preventing cancer

By Neil Fater

Since he first began treating patients, one area of medicine has particularly called out to Howard Koh, the newly named commissioner of the state Department of Public Health.

"I've always had a passion for cancer as a physician," he said.

But even as a young doctor treating people suffering and dying with cancer, Dr. Koh realized he was on the wrong end of the treatment line.

Starting out, his plan was to "lay hands on as many patients as possible and try to cure them all," he explained. "But it became obvious to me there were a number of people who would have benefited from early screening and prevention."

It is because of this experience, he said, that he's focused so much of his career on preventive medicine and tobacco control.

Dr. Koh's career started at Yale, where he graduated cum laude with a bachelor of arts in 1973. He received his medical degree in 1977 from Yale University School of Medicine.

While training at Boston City Hospital 20 years ago, Dr. Koh, 45, met his future wife, Claudia Arrigg, who is also a physician, as are her father and two brothers. A family joke is that his wife's mother is also an MD, said Dr. Koh. She's a "mother of doctors."

Drs. Koh and Arrigg have three children. Steven, 14, will be a sophomore at Phillips Academy; Daniel, 12, will enter the seventh grade at Pike; and Katie, 9, will enter the fifth grade at Pike.

Dr. Koh was a chief resident in internal medicine at Boston City Hospital and went on to be chief resident in dermatology at Mass. General Hospital.

He is the only American physician to be quadruple-board certified and have a public health degree. He earned that degree from Boston University

Well qualified - Dr. Howard Koh is quadruple-board certified as a physician, and also brings a masters degree in public health to his new position as state commissioner of public health.

School of Public Health in 1995. Dr. Koh's been associated with Boston Medical Center and Boston University schools of Medicine and Public Health for 12 years.

Dr. Koh has received several grants from the National Cancer Institute including a five-year Preventive Oncology Academic Award.

He is chairman of the Massachusetts Coalition for a Healthy Future, the statewide umbrella organization that promotes tobacco control through the money raised from a tax on cigarettes.

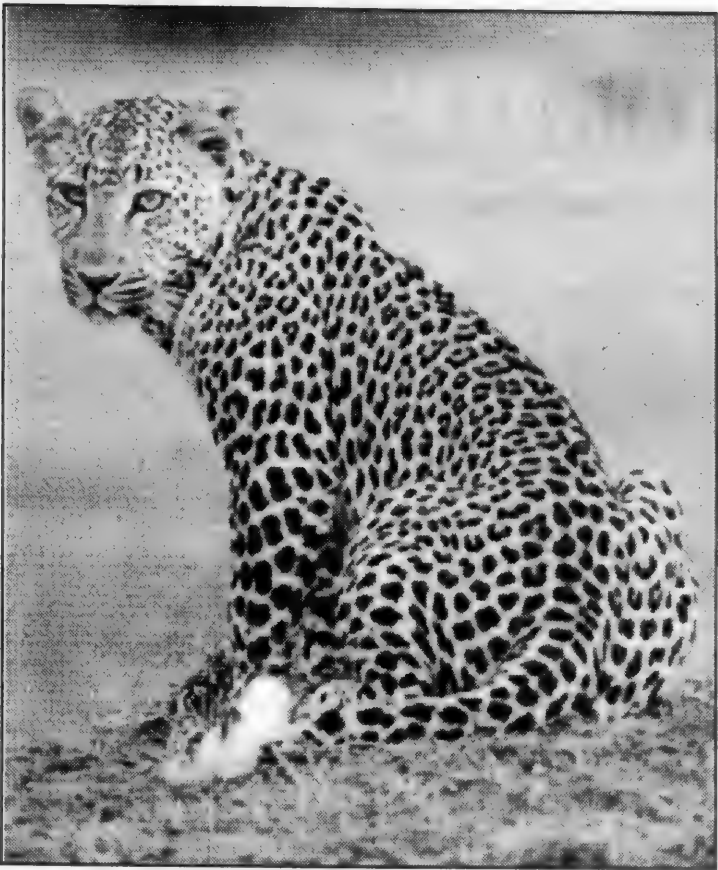

According to the Boston Medical Center, Dr. Koh's accomplishments "include helping to coordinate control activities in Massachusetts that (have) led to rapidly declining cigarette consumption at a rate three times faster than the national average, and launching national skin-cancer screenings which have now reached more than a million people over the past decade."

Dr. Koh is a national chairman of the Skin Cancer Advisory Group for the American Cancer Society, national chairman of the Committee on Melanoma and Skin Cancer for the American Academy of Dermatology, a member of the board of directors of the state division of the American Cancer Society, a cancer control consultant for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and a member of the Office of Minority Health Advisory Board for the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

Dr. Koh is chairman of the editorial board of the Asian American and Pacific Islander Journal of Health, and is on the editorial boards of the Journal of Clinical Oncology and the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology.

He has published more than 175 articles in medical and public health journals. He has also testified before the United States Congress on Asian-American health issues and breast cancer screening of Asian-American woman.

A principal investigator of a number of grants, Dr. Koh has supervised a range of research projects including a five-year NCI-funded program to teach a cancer-prevention-and-control curriculum to Boston University medical students.

Wild kingdom – The cheetah at left and the elephant at right are two of the more interesting animals that roam the plains of Africa. Those and a lot more are part of what travelers see when they book a safari with Africa Calls.

Visit Africa tonight, at presentation

By Neil Fater

Literature fans will tell you that as Mr. Kurtz is taken out of Africa in Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness," the dying man mutters only, "The horror, the horror." Perhaps he should have used Africa Calls.

Africa Calls is a company that custom designs African safaris for adventurous travelers. It is run by Andover resident Christina Alfieri Misata, of Lincoln Circle, and her mother, Babette Alfieri, who founded the company in 1990.

Serious travelers interested in hearing about their safaris as well as armchair explorers intrigued by stories and photos of Africa are invited to a one-hour slide-show presentation tonight, Thursday, at 8 p.m. in Old Town Hall.

Ms. Misata and Ms. Alfieri say they differ significantly from the typical travel agent in several ways.

"The first obvious difference is that we're so connected there," says Ms. Alfieri, who first visited Africa in 1974. "It's 23 years of really intense knowledge of the African safari scene. Because of the experience, we have a greater range of products we can draw upon."

Ms. Alfieri spends half her year in Africa, learning the latest news from her base at the Chinzombo Safari Lodge in Zambia, and half the year in the United States. Her daughter personally leads special safaris about three times per year and runs the company's office from Andover the rest of the time.

While many safaris in countries like Kenya send dozens or even 100 people out in buses at the same time, Africa Calls leads smaller groups of around eight people, typically in the less-trafficked countries of Zambia, Botswana and Zimbabwe, the women say.

They say Africa Calls also spends a great deal of time with clients, creating exactly the type of safari its clients want. If people want to stay in the equivalent of five-star hotels, have camps prepared for them ahead of time when traveling, and enjoy a champagne brunch next to natural wonder Victoria Falls, they can. If a client wants to cook his own food during a walking tour, he could do that.

Or, clients could plan a combination of the two.

"It's a pretty small industry and we can say with certainty that we're the only ones who offer this," says Ms. Misata. "They're each different. That's our main strength, we think, that we customize each safari to meet their desires."

The safari specialists say their trips can run anywhere from $225 to $1,100 per person per night for lodging and they quote one planned two-week trip as costing about $5,550 per person.

Africa Calls handled about 200 people last year, including one woman who wanted a two-month trip so she could see the change from the dry season to the rainy season.

What kind of people tend to enjoy safaris? Well, if the person's first reaction is to worry about the mosquitoes, then he might be better off going to Disneyland. People need some sense of adventure to apply.

But Ms. Alfieri says most safaris greatly benefit from the input of Phil Berry, who grew up in remote areas of Africa.

"He's wonderful with birds and trees, with history, with whatever they're interested in," said Ms. Alfieri. "He has quite a significant following. People really want to be with him."

Ms. Alfieri said one of the great thrills for most people is getting in close to the animals and wildlife they've only seen on television. People can take night drives in Zambia, one of the only countries to allow such excursions.

"You really can't guarantee anything, that's what makes Africa special," she said. "But you can say in this area they are known for their elephants, in this area they're having amazing leopard sightings."

Some previous guests have seen wild dogs kill prey against the kitchen tent during breakfast in Botswana, while others noticed while they were enjoying themselves in camp that a pride of lions had encircled the Chinzombo lodge's bar. Elephants have also trumpeted their presence in camp. Being this close to such animals amazes some people, says Ms. Alfieri. "It's an indescribable thing that seems to happen to them. It seems to happen to 95 percent of the people we send," she says, comparing it to a religious experience. "I think it had to do with getting back to nature. Africa it so primal, you feel like it's been there forever."

At Ms. Alfieri's camp in Zambia's Luangwa Valley where most safaris make a stop, people stay in a grass house with cement floors, beds, and open-air bathrooms complete with hot and cold water and flush toilets.

Ms. Misata says being a part of this business has been a dream come true.

"I've been traveling there since I was 6, and I visited her (Ms. Alfieri) when she was spending half the year there while I was in college. I, too, was bitten by this bug of Africa," she says.

But it wasn't until she began bringing friends with her to Africa that she truly appreciated the effect it can have on people.

"That's what made me realize what a special opportunity it was, because I got to see their reactions and their families' reactions when they returned," she says.

Working a few days of horseback riding into her trips is her favorite part of the job, and Ms. Misata says she's looking forward to trying an elephant-back tour.

For Ms. Alfieri, finding the perfect shot of a particular animal is a pleasure, which is one reason she extols the benefits of traveling in an open vehicle or on foot.

Two highly regarded men, Morris and Koh

Unlike last week, when Andover dealt with a major house fire and the death of a young and admired resident, this has been a good week for this community.

Andover attorney Michael Morris has been honored with the University of Massachusetts-Amherst's highest honor, the Chancellor's Medal, for his excellent three-year term as president of the alumni association's board of directors. During that time, Mr. Morris managed to get an 8 percent increase in support from the Legislature; and he left the alumni association with a multi-million dollar kitty to make grants to athletic and academic programs for students.

Also this week, Andover resident Dr. Howard Koh was named commissioner of the state Department of Public Health. The only quadruple-certified doctor in the state (dermatology, hematology, medical oncology and internal medicine), Dr. Koh is the obvious choice for the position. His goal as commissioner is to make Massachusetts the healthiest state in the country.

Dr. Koh's appointment is good news for all of us. As far as he's concerned, the entire state should be smoke free. Cancer prevention and tobacco control, he says, are our most pressing public-health issues. Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci called Dr. Koh a "scholar, educator and healer."

Andover's 750 UMass-Amherst alumni should thank Michael Morris for taking the university to a new and higher level.

And Andover residents, as well as the rest of the state, should feel well represented by Howard Koh at the Department of Public Health.

Welcome to disorientation week

By Taylor Armerding

I'm not sure why they call your first few days in a new place "orientation." I know it's a pretty friendly term, and is meant to help you feel at home and part of the new school, team, company, whatever.

But I'm thinking now the reality is more like disorientation.

Not that everybody I've met so far, both within and without the Andover Townsman, hasn't shown an extravagant, almost embarrassing amount of hospitality. You readers are already aware of this, I'm sure, but after one week, I can tell you from direct experience that you have a splendid group of people creating your home town paper.

You already know this, but I can now tell you from direct experience that you have a thoughtful home town booster in Fred Stott, who dropped by early last week to personally deliver a letter bringing a bit of sobriety and perspective to the rather volatile debate about the town manager.

You already know this, but you have some splendid clergy. I met one member of that group late in the week, when the Rev. Dr. Calvin F. Mutti (he says I can call him Cal) stopped over to say hello, gave us a letter spreading the word about how we can help the Vose family, whose apartment was destroyed in the July 4 fire, and to point out the steeple of his church, visible above the buildings along Main Street from the windows here at the Townsman office.

You already know this, but I can tell you from direct experience that right off the center of town, you have a beautiful, quiet green space, perfect for midday strolls. Just beyond that is a track that is even better for a bit more aggressive walking, or even running.

You are aware, I'm sure, of the passion that you and your fellow residents bring to issues like personal responsibility, especially when it is applied to a graduating senior who didn't meet all the requirements to go through the ceremony with the rest of his class. Did the punishment fit the "crime?" Some of you make a well-reasoned case that it did. Just as many of you make a case that it didn't. That's good. It would be awfully boring if everybody thought the same thing.

You are aware, I'm sure, that among your Main Street storefronts is a door. Go in and turn to the left and you can get a potent jolt of caffeine. Turn to the right and you can also get a potent jolt of caffeine. I know that now from personal experience.

But there are a thousand or more things I can't tell you. And that is what has me feeling so disoriented. I've come from a place where I had worked for the better part of 20 years. Where if a reporter was working on a story about almost any topic, I could suggest anywhere from three to a dozen possible sources.

After 20 years, you just sort of absorb a bit of community history. You know who's been mayor of the half-dozen cities in the area going back to the '70s. You know the history of downtown buildings, and can tell anyone who is interested how one of them went from storefront to office space to computer supply shop to residential, all within 15 years. You know how to spell everybody's name, and are a bit mystified when a new reporter doesn't automatically know that a certain Jeffrey spells his name Jeffery.

You know every shortcut to anywhere. You know where to eat lunch. You know who to believe and who's credibility factor is less than 50 percent. You know faces well enough to yank the wrong picture off the page.

And now, suddenly, I have to learn all those things over again. Don't get me wrong. I'm looking forward to it. But I also have a lot more sympathy for a friend of mine who was telling me about his new job a few years ago.

"I'm telling you," he said. "There are things that ought to take me three minutes that are taking me a half hour."

Now I know what he means.

LETTERS

Teacher: Mummey had plenty of warning on late paper

Editor, Townsmen:

I have lived in Andover all my life, and I have taught English at Andover High School for the past 23 years. I grow increasingly tired of people in this town who hear one side of a story and feel free to take pot shots at the administration or the faculty of the high school.

I refer particularly to an article interviewing the Mummey family ["Late paper meant late diploma for AHS grad," July 3] and two letters — one from Kathleen Wackowski and one from Sean Gresh [Letters, July 10]. Ms. Wackowski was particularly incensed that Ellen Parker, the principal of the high school, had not responded to questions from the Andover Townsman.

Well, of course she didn't! It's called confidentiality. Mrs. Parker is not at liberty to discuss any situation regarding a student's record.

But let me share some facts about life at the high school. Early in May a long list of dates is provided to every senior including not only activities for the end of school but also important deadlines that seniors must meet.

Also at the beginning of May teachers are requested to complete a form provided by the counseling department listing seniors who are in danger of failing a course. The counseling department then verifies that the student needs the credit to graduate, in which case the first letter is sent home to parents warning them that their child will not graduate if the requirements for this course are not met satisfactorily.

Generally speaking, teachers and counselors are in close touch over the next few weeks about students "in danger." (I had four such students this year, all of whom satisfied the requirements for the course and graduated with their class.)

If, by 2:15 on Tuesday, May 27, 1997 — the deadline this year — a teacher had not removed a student from the list of those in danger, the counseling department sent home a second letter informing the parent that the student had not met the requirements for graduation and would not, therefore, graduate on June 9. One can appreciate that this gives parents two weeks notice that the student will not graduate.

Most of the required academic courses at the high school run a full year — although there are exceptions. The requirement for passing a full year course is a 60-percent average over four quarters. If a student is in good standing over the course of the year, one paper will probably not affect that student's grade so adversely as to be the difference between graduating and not graduating. The requirement is to pass the course — not just to submit a paper.

Finally, if we were talking about the "world of work" and an employee failed to submit an important report, proposal, or bid by a given deadline, he or she would probably not be employed much longer. We are teaching life lessons as well as math and English. What do we teach young men and women when we let them "slide by" when the deadline passes and we make excuses for them?

If you knew that one paper meant the difference between your graduating and not graduating, wouldn't you submit it on time?

Town counsel critic also calls manager unresponsive

Editor, Townsmen:

I would like to add my input to the front-page article [July 10, "Town manager's future in doubt?"] concerning the town manager and the praise from Frederic A. Stott [Letters, July 10, "Fred Stott praises town manager."] in the Townsmen.

Over many years, I have written to government agencies, miscellaneous groups, and business organizations with questions, complaints and praise. With but one exception, I have always received a response. Sometimes, I might not have liked the response, but I was never ignored. The one exception is our current town manager.

I have written two letters to the town manager concerning town counsel, Attorney Urbelis. The letters address (1) town counsel incompetence, March 17 [Letters, March 20] and (2) town counsel conflict of interest, March 24. The second letter is the result of a letter submitted by me to the Massachusetts Board of Bar Overseers on Feb. 8, 1997 that now requires action by the town manager.

One would want to believe that if there is other identifiable documentation that would modify my conclusions based on public records in the Andover Planning Department, the town manager would move quickly to defend his town counsel and respond to the letters.

As a longtime resident, my impression is that Mr. Stapczynski is not "my" town manager, and he certainly does not have my respect or support.

I applaud and encourage the selectmen to evaluate the performance of Mr. Stapczynski. What with the problems Andover has had recently, especially the fiasco of the high school, it

This is a state that cares about breast cancer

Editor, Townsmen:

For anyone from Andover or the Merrimack Valley, last week was a great time to visit the Statehouse.

Due to the efforts of Senator John O'Brien, a special week-long display of the "Living With Breast Cancer" photo exhibit hung in Doric Hall.

Written and photographed by the Townsmen's Perry Colmore and Lisa Adelsberger, the exhibit was viewed by hundreds of visitors. We could barely get the photos unwrapped and up on the walls fast enough for the numbers of tourists and Statehouse workers who wanted to read and study the exhibit. No doubt they came away with a new appreciation for the women who daily teach us what it means to truly live with breast cancer.

But the fact that this exhibit was featured so prominently at our Statehouse is a symbol for an even more important fact: This is a state that cares deeply about women's health. In conjunction with the exhibit, Senator O'Brien hosted a very moving Statehouse reception, co-sponsored by the American Cancer Society. The reception recognized our state Legislature's continuing commitment to funding free mammograms for underserved women, and breast cancer research.

Indeed, the Legislature has approved an increase in the breast cancer initiative budget for next year to $8.2 million. It's no coincidence that breast cancer mortality in Massachusetts is more than half of the national mortality rate.

I salute Senator O'Brien for his commitment to cancer control, and for showcasing the lifesaving breast cancer awareness efforts of so many citizens of Andover. And hats off to Perry and Lisa for giving voices and faces to a disease that we simply cannot afford to ignore.

may well be time for a new town manager able to offer better management to our town.

I would also suggest that the selectmen review the performance of town counsel. If I can identify incompetence and conflict of interest in a single, selected area of interest to me, and be neither challenged nor questioned, then I submit that town counsel's general performance is at best, mediocre and he should be replaced.

Don't undermine town manager

Editor, Townsmen:

We are writing after having read last week's article about the Board of Selectmen's evaluation of the Town Manager, Buzz Stapczynski.

From the article and from watching the meeting, we were really concerned about the lack of leadership being exhibited by two of the members of the board.

Both of us have given a lot of time to the town and have always felt that the manager was supportive of the committees we have served. We feel very fortunate to live in such a nice town and to have such good municipal services. The town has always had a good reputation, and Buzz has worked hard to keep Andover's character while it has experienced a great deal of growth during his tenure.

We appreciate Dr. Larsen's concerns about the high school project, but it is very simplistic thinking to blame one person for a project of this magnitude. Again, Andover has experienced a great deal of growth in the past five to 10 years, not all of us feel comfortable with this growth, but it cannot be blamed on the town manager. We have benefited from his professional experience and found him to always be available to listen to any concerns.

We hope that this evaluation procedure does not undermine his effectiveness in managing the town. We have found Buzz to be a hardworking, ethical manager who has chosen to make Andover his home and treats it accordingly. We hope the board will work together to provide the leadership that the town needs during such growth and expansion.

POLICE LOG

ARRESTS

Wednesday, July 9 - At 3:15 a.m., Stephen M. Faro, 29, of Inman Street, Lawrence, was arrested and charged with driving with a suspended license and failure to stay in marked lanes.

A cappella singer Marc de Lemos doesn't doo-wop

By Neil Fater

When Marc de Lemos was about 11 years old, he was "stopped still" by John Coltrane's sax version of "My Favorite Things." Music has been on his list of favorite things ever since.

With that musical devotion driving him, Mr. de Lemos and his group, The Digressions, will try to make others stop still when Ballardvale United Church hosts "A cappella in the House II," Saturday, July 19 at 7:30 p.m.

The Digressions will perform with fellow Boston a cappella group a.k.a. Pelican Groove.

Just don't expect the same type of performance from the two all-vocal-chord groups. The Digressions chose the name Digressions for a reason, after all. They like to think of themselves as distinctively different.

The Digressions don't doo-wop, they do original music.

The Cuba Street, says he enjoys creating new songs such as Untitled II, a song with no words. It's the a cappella equivalent of an instrumental.

"It seemed fitting that since it has no words, it shouldn't have a title either. It's also Untitled II, even though there's no I," he said. "We normally warn people ahead of time before we sing it."

Thanks in part to Mr. de Lemos' jazz jones, The Digressions also sing their own interpretations of existing tunes, rather than performing straight covers of songs by popular musicians.

"Normally, 30 percent of our show you're not going to hear anywhere else. It's our stuff. The rest, you're not going to hear it the way we do it. So that's the reason to come out and hear it," says Mr. de Lemos.

Although he seems down to earth in person, Mr. de Lemos describes himself as megalomaniacal. To hear him tell it, the other members of the group - Tony and Michelle Berke, Martha Levesque, Lauren Mazurka, and Jean Teitz - deflate him enough to keep the group rolling comfortably along.

"Within any group there has to be a vision. I think I have one and we're in a constant state of negotiation to make sure everyone's involved," he says. "Trying to impose my will is part of my nature and being told it's not going to happen is part of theirs. We seem to balance ourselves."

Mr. de Lemos is an original member of the five-year-old group. For the most part, he writes the songs that make the whole group sing.

"The beauty is I can write a song and hear it. I don't have to drag a band around," he says of being an a cappella singer. "I took lessons for piano, for cello...and I was bad. I can play the keyboard adequately, but I'm never going to be an (instrumental) performance musician and that's obvious to me."

"I'm not a musician, I'm a vocalist," he says. "But I like singing and you can take it wherever you are."

A love of singing is what brought The Digressions together. Mr. de Lemos says he was a member of the Yale a cappella group, Alley Cats, and missed performing before he hooked up with the other members of the group.

"We (The Digressions) are a pick-up group. We're a good pick-up group but we're still a pick-up group," he says. "We have day jobs and most of us like them. We also have families and like to be near them. Being recognized as a good group in the Boston area is a good goal. Being able to fill a house when we do a gig is nice. (But) I don't want to go on the road anytime soon."

Mr. de Lemos doesn't hit the road too much during the week anyway. He works out of his home, tickling the computer keys for Garnet Health Systems. A start-up company, Garnet helps doctors, hospitals and HMOs limit the amount of paperwork they must complete.

So one would think his nights performing in bars and creating new music must be quite a change from his program work during the day.

Wrong.

"They're exactly the same because it's problem solving. With the computer, getting from the problem to the solution means going into that black box and coming out on the other side with the solution," he says. "Song writing's the same process."

It all comes down to coming up with creative applications, he explains.

After hearing that explanation, it's easier to understand why Mr. de Lemos considers himself to be "a musical metaphysicist." Like many performers, he says there's more to music than meets the ear.

Let them digress - Marc de Lemos, upper right, is the leader and chief songwriter of the a cappella group, The Digressions.

"There are two pieces to producing music. One is the technical. Am I producing the proper notes in the proper rhythm? But there's so much about music that is mental, that goes beyond the physical," he says. "If you don't have the vibe, or the groove, throughout, you're not going to produce (worthwhile) music."

***

Residents can check to see if The Digressions' vibe makes them quiver by attending the Ballardvale United Church show this weekend. Tickets are $10. For more information or to make reservations call (508) 470-1567.

Americans, Nationals show vital signs in District 14 Tournament play

By Rick Harrison

The Andover American Major 11-12 Division Little League All-Stars remained alive in District 14 Tournament play after posting two more victories in loser's bracket games earlier this week.

The Americans, 4-1 in the double-elimination tourney, registered another heartstopping triumph when they held on to edge South Lawrence West, 4-3, before cruising to a 9-1 victory over Lowell Callery on Tuesday night.

The Andover National Major 11-12's were thrust into the loser's bracket with a tough 2-0 defeat to Tewksbury National, then bounced back with a convincing 11-0 romp over Methuen West National.

Two other Andover teams were ousted from District 14 play after suffering their second losses.

The Andover Junior 13's bowed out with a 1-2 tourney record, stampeding past North Andover 18-1 to stay alive before being eliminated 8-2 by Billerica National.

The Junior All-Stars had dropped a 7-4 decision to Tewksbury American in their opener.

The Andover Senior 14-15's also finished with a 1-2 mark, last week outslugging North Andover, 17-10, before a 14-6 loss to Methuen West National ended their run.

The Senior All-Stars opened with a 12-0 defeat to defending Massachusetts and New England champion Tewksbury National.

The four Andover teams have posted an 8-6 overall record in District 14 Tournament play this summer.

Schedule

Andover American, which still needs five more wins to capture the District 14 title, hopes to continue its climb out of the loser's bracket tonight with a 5:45 p.m. game against host Billerica American at the Pollard School field in Billerica.

Billerica American is 2-1, having beaten South Lawrence East (7-3) and Chelmsford Lupien (3-2) before dropping a 7-2 winner's bracket semifinal decision to Tewksbury National on Tuesday night.

Should the Americans win again tonight, they will next play on Saturday at 4 p.m., with the opponent and site yet to be determined.

MAJOR 11-12 DIVISION
Andover American 9
Lowell Callery 1

Lefthander Tom Haugh (2-0), who blanked North Andover 5-0 on two hits in an earlier tourney assignment, almost made it back-to-back shutouts with another outstanding effort at the Chandler Road/Deyermund Field.

Haugh stretched his string of consecutive scoreless tourney innings to 11 before Callery pushed across its only run in the sixth.

The crafty southpaw allowed only two singles, one in the first inning and another in the fourth, struck out six and walked two.

The Americans put the game away with five runs in the second stanza.

Paul Chiozzi laced a single to left, advanced to second on an error, and scored when Paul Skinner ripped a single to center. Skinner stole second, took third as Jarrett Mackin reached on an error, and then Mackin stole second.

Chris Vetrano was hit by a pitch, loading the bases, and two runs scored when Haugh lashed a single to left and the outfielder made a wild throw to the cutoff man.

A runner was cut down at home trying to score on a passed ball, but the setback was temporary as Ryan Hutzler walked, stole second and Liam Shanahan capped the rally with a two-run single to right-centerfield.

Andover scored two more in the fourth on only one hit.

Greg McKallagat drew a two-out walk, Haugh singled to center, both advanced on a wild pitch and McKallagat crossed on a passed ball. The second run, making it 7-0, was forced home after consecutive walks to Hutzler, Shanahan and Jason White (RBI).

The Americans' final two runs came in the fifth.

Mackin spanked a one-out single, took second on a wild pitch, and moved to third when Vetrano blooped a single to right. The runners then pulled off a double steal with Mackin scoring.

McKallagat was hit by a pitch and replaced by pinch-runner Anthony Perry. Hutzler was safe on a two-out fielder's choice as Vetrano escaped a rundown between third and home. A passed ball brought home the final run.

Skinner paced the eight-hit attack with a double and single, Haugh added two singles and other safeties were by Shanahan, Chiozzi, Mackin and Vetrano.

Hutzler made a nice leaping catch of a line drive at second base, while other sharp defensive plays were contributed by Mackin at third base (fifth-inning grounder), both Shanahan and Vetrano at shortstop, and McKallagat in right field.

South Lawrence West 3

The Cardiac Kids played their third one-run tourney game and once again came away winners, with Jarrett Mackin and Jason White keying the loser's bracket victory at Mt. Vernon Park in Lawrence.

Mackin (3-for-3, two RBI) and White hit the Americans' first two tournament home runs, and White (2-0) picked up his second tourney pitching triumph with two innings of strong relief.

The locals made it four different starting pitchers in four games when big righthander Paul Skinner, of the AL runner-up Royals, took the mound against SLW.

Skinner worked four solid innings, allowing only two hits and three runs (two unearned) while fanning three and walking four.

Andover jumped ahead 2-0 in the top of the second when Paul Chiozzi singled to center, Skinner singled and both advanced on an error.

Mackin ripped a single to score Chiozzi, and Steve Renfro laid down a squeeze bunt to rescue Skinner.

SLW broke a string of 10 consecutive scoreless innings by American pitchers when it notched a pair of runs in the bottom of the third to tie it 2-2.

The teams traded solo runs in the fourth, Andover scoring when Mackin lofted a bases-empty home run over the left field fence.

It remained deadlocked at 3-3 until a wild and controversial top of the sixth.

White produced the eventual winning run with a bases-empty opposite-field homer down the line in right.

Mackin drilled a laser beam double off the fence in left, and speedy Anthony Perry was inserted to pinch-run.

The next batter walked, and a one-out grounder to the infield produced a throw that pulled the first baseman off the bag.

Perry rounded third and tried to score on the play, but was called out at home when he and the ball arrived at about the same time.

SLW players, thinking incorrectly that the runner at first was also out, ran off the field believing the inning was over. Meanwhile, with no time out called, the Andover runner at second scored and the man at first advanced to second.

However, after a lengthy discussion among the three umpires, it was determined the Andover coach at third left the coach's box during the play.

That's illegal under Little League rules and constitutes an automatic out, so Andover was forced to settle for only the one run on White's homer.

It all proved academic when White, the son of former Texas native and Andover High pitching standout Bo White, nailed down the win by retiring SLW 1-2-3 in the bottom of the sixth on a comebacker to the mound and two strikeouts.

White allowed one fifth-inning single, struck out three and didn't walk a batter in his relief stint.

Mackin finished with a near-cycle single, double and homer, Chiozzi lashed three singles, and Liam Shanahan contributed a single to the nine-hit attack.

Chris Vetrano had an outstanding game defensively.

He played the first four innings in center field, hauling down a deep drive at the fence with two runners aboard in the SLW fourth.

Vetrano moved to shortstop in the fifth when Shanahan's tender arm began to hurt, and came through with two nice plays on grounders up the middle.

Tewksbury National 2
Andover National 0

The Nationals dropped a tough winner's bracket quarterfinal decision under the lights at Poulin Field in Tewksbury, as defending District 14 champ T-N pushed across single runs in the third and fourth innings.

Wil Walter was the hard-luck losing pitcher, yielding only six singles in five innings while walking one and whiffing two.

Tewksbury's Mike Bordinaro was a shade better, firing a one-hit shutout with two walks and 10 Ks.

Walter's one-out single in the sixth was the only A-N hit, as the locals did not get a runner beyond second base.

Tewksbury National scored the only run necessary in the third when catcher Kelly Boyle, one of the few girls in the baseball tournament, reached on a fielder's choice and eventually raced across on Jeff Joyce's single to center field.

The insurance run came in the fourth on a single by John Harrison, passed ball and RBI single to right by Mike Rocco.

Rocco was the only player with two hits while Bordinaro lashed a single.

Andover National 11
Methuen West National 0

A nine-run fourth-inning explosion, coupled with the one-hit shutout pitching of righthander Jordan Thibault (1-0 tourney record), kept A-N's hopes alive as it smoked host Methuen West National at Veterans Park in Methuen.

The game was halted after five innings by the 10-run mercy rule.

Thibault struck out five, walked only one and pitched hitless ball after the second MWN hitter singled in the top of the first.

Methuen West National never mounted a serious threat.

Andover inched ahead 1-0 in the bottom of the second inning after lacing four of its 15 hits.

Pat Wadland spanked the first single but was subsequently called out for throwing his bat. Joe Heitz, Russ Stevens and George Thorlin (RBI) followed with singles.

The Nationals sent 14 batters to the plate in the game-breaking fourth.

Wadland reached on an error, Heitz walked and Stevens singled to load the bases.

John Linnemann spiked a two-run single, Thorlin belted a two-run double to left-center, and Wil Walter lofted a two-run homer to left-center.

Mike Pescatore reached on an error, Thibault singled, Wadland drilled an RBI single and Heitz capped the outburst with a two-run double.

The final run in the fifth came on a Dave Lamond triple over the centerfielder's head and an RBI single by Walter.

Walter finished with three hits and three RBI, while Wadland added two singles, Heitz a single, double and two RBI, Thorlin a single, double and two RBI, Stevens two singles and Pescatore a single.

JUNIOR 13 DIVISION
Andover 18
North Andover 1

Andover lived to play one more time with this loser's bracket annihilation of District 14 newcomer North Andover at the Doherty Middle School field.

The locals, who actually trailed 1-0 in the second, exploded for 14 runs in their half of the second stanza before adding the final four in the third.

The game was halted early by the 10-run mercy rule.

The winners paraded 19 batters to the plate in the seemingly-endless bottom of the second.

Mike Shannon started the uprising with a single, Crawford Sinkinson walked and Rich Furness ripped an RBI single.

Singles by Mike Cronin and Dave Rosenberg brought in two more runs, and then consecutive bases-loaded walks to winning pitcher Mike Lanciani, Andy Tonelli and Gerry Vye forced in three more for a 6-1 lead.

Chris Hanlon reached on an error to score a run, and the second time around the order Shannon and Sinkinson spanked RBI singles to boost the spread to 9-1.

Furness walked for a run and the uprising ended with run-scoring singles by Cronin, Lanciani, Tonelli and Vye.

Eight more hitters strode to the plate in the third, which started with Rosenberg being hit by a pitch and Lanciani walking.

Tonelli rescued Rosenberg on a fielder's choice, Mike Bouchard ripped a two-run single and Hanlon later lofted a sacrifice fly for the 18th run.

Complete-game winner Lanciani yielded only one basehit over four innings, striking out four and walking two.

Billerica National 8
Andover 2

Andover trailed only 2-1 in the middle of the fourth inning and 4-2 halfway through the fifth, but Billerica National broke the loser's bracket game open with three runs in the bottom of the fifth to key the triumph at the Andover High junior varsity field.

The loss eliminated the Andover Junior 13's from the tournament.

Mike Shannon's two-out single in the first frame was the only hit for the locals.

Chris Hanlon went the distance on the mound, yielding 10 hits (all singles) while striking out two and walking three.

Andover took itself out of two potential rallies when runners twice were picked off third base.

Brian Meuse went the distance on the mound for Billerica National, fanning six and walking three, and he also laced an RBI single.

Chad Hildreth and Nick Stevens each lashed a two-run single for the winners, while Bill Fleurant contributed three singles and played a strong defensive game at third base.

Andover scored its first run in the fourth and its second run in the fifth.

SENIOR 14-15 DIVISION
Andover 17
North Andover 10

After being rained out the previous night, the Andover Seniors donned their hitting shoes and pounded out this high-scoring loser's bracket triumph over District 14 newcomer North Andover at the AHS junior varsity field.

The locals scored in every inning except the fifth, and never trailed after falling behind 1-0 in the top of the first.

Andover came back with six runs in the home half, sending nine batters to the plate and getting key strokes from Justin Games with a single, Andy Timko an RBI double and Mark Matos a bases-loaded three-run double.

16-1 overall, Andover Post 8 takes aim in annual Zone 8A title race

It has become a summertime ritual.

Every year, in late July, the Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team wins the Essex County League Zone 8A championship and makes a run at State Tournament qualification.

As the Townsmen went to press this week, Post 8 was on the verge of annexing another title, the locals galloping down the regular-season homestretch with a jam-packed run of five games in five days.

A crucial 6-4 victory over Lawrence Post 15 on Tuesday night under the lights at Mark Devlin Field boosted Andover to 16-1 overall, clinching at least a tie for first place.

One more victory (or tie) will assure Post 8 a fourth straight Zone 8A title, and its fifth in the last seven years.

Although Andover is still seeking its first-ever Massachusetts Legion crown, Post 8 has qualified for the state tournament three times in seven years.

Other recent victories were registered over North Andover (8-5), Lynn Gautreau (2-1), Methuen Post 122 twice (16-9 and 14-4), Haverhill (15-8) and East Boston (16-6).

Sandwiched between the Methuen and Haverhill wins was the only league loss, 12-10, to Beverly Post 331.

Andover also collected a forfeit win over Ipswich, which couldn't field a full team, while two other games were postponed by rain.

Post 8, with a 9-4 lead over Peabody in the bottom of the fifth, needed just three more outs to make it official. But the umpires called the game because of darkness.

Andover had a 2-1 lead over Zone 8B leader Gloucester Monday night when the game was washed out in the second inning.

The locals also dropped a 7-6 extra-inning decision to Lowell Post 87 under the lights at Alumni Field, home of the Boston Red Sox farm team the Lowell Spinners.

The non-league game does not count on the record, however, so both teams substituted liberally (using several younger players).

Zone races

All teams are scheduled to play 23 league games, with champions determined on a points basis (two for a win, one for a tie).

Andover's 16-1 record translates to 32 points, and the only other team that still has a chance is Haverhill Post 4, which owned a 12-7 record (through games Tuesday night) for 24 points.

Lawrence, which had an outside shot until Tuesday night, was eliminated with the loss to Andover. Post 15 fell to 13-8 overall and can now finish with no more than 30 points.

Other division frontrunners/playoff contenders in Andover's zone are Gloucester (Zone 8B), Peabody (Zone 8C) and two-time defending state champ Swampscott (Zone 8).

The four Zone 8 division champions will open best-of-3 state tournament qualifying series beginning next Wednesday and continuing on Thursday and Friday.

The first game will be at the home field of the higher seed, the second at the lower seed and the teams will flip for home field if a third game is necessary.

Zone 8 champs will play the top four teams in Zone 5, and entering this week the Zone 5 leaders included Newton Post 440 with a 15-1 record, Lowell Post 87 at 15-4, North Chelmsford Vinal Post 313 at 11-6 and Reading Post 62.

Schedule

All regular season games must be played by this Sunday.

Post 8's busy schedule resumed at Revere last night, Wednesday, and concludes with games at Peabody (makeup) tomorrow night, Friday (6 p.m.), versus Salem on Saturday at Merrimack College (5 p.m.), and a doubleheader Sunday at Haverhill (1 p.m.) and home versus Middleton (5 p.m.).

"We're playing excellent baseball, said Post 8 manager Joe Larrobino. "The older kids have been doing exactly what we expected, but for us to be this successful we also needed the younger 16- and 17-year-old players to come through."

"Rick Johnson has filled some big shoes (Brian Tisbert) at shortstop, Ryan Hanigan has done an excellent job at third base, Scott Petersen and Ben Gibson (17's) have played well, and kids like Mark Rocca and Jason Daley (16's) have also given us a lift."

"This stretch run is going to put a strain on our pitching staff, but I think we'll be equal to it," added Larrobino.

Andover hurlers are Rob Busby (5-0, two saves), Mark O'Sullivan (4-0, two saves), Ted Payne (2-0), Jason Daley (2-0), Mark Rocca (2-1) and Dan Gosselin (1-0, two saves).

Andover 6 Lawrence 4

A five-run top of the fourth wiped out a 3-1 Lawrence lead and lifted visiting Post 8 to the crucial victory in Tuesday night's late game at Devlin Field.

Post 15 had kept its slim title hopes flickering by defeating Peabody in the first game of the Devlin doubleheader.

Big righthander Mark O'Sullivan went the first six innings for Andover, and although he struggled with his control he yielded only three hits and struck out 10.

He also issued seven walks to keep it interesting, but only one of the four Lawrence runs was earned.

Rob Busby pitched a 1-2-3 seventh in relief to nail down the victory and his second save, striking out the final two batters to finish with a flourish.

Post 8 took a 1-0 lead in the first when Ted Payne belted a one-out triple to left-center. O'Sullivan brought him home with a two-out single.

Lawrence moved ahead with two runs in the second and one more in the third, setting the stage for the pivotal Andover fourth.

Scott Petersen drew a one-out walk, Busby laced a single to center and Ryan Hanigan spanked an RBI single to left-center.

Rick Johnson kept things alive with a bunt single, Ben Gibson reached on a fielder's choice to rescue the tying run, and Payne walked to load the bases.

Steve Vickers then delivered the key stroke with a three-run double to right-center to snap the 3-3 deadlock.

Post 15 inched closer with its final run in the bottom of the fourth before being shut out over the last three frames.

Lawrence placed two runners aboard in both the fifth (two walks) and sixth (error, walk), but O'Sullivan bore down to get the big outs when needed.

Vickers and Keith Grasnt led the nine-hit Andover attack with a double and single each, Payne tripled, and contributing one single apiece were O'Sullivan, Busby, Hanigan and Johnson.

Johnson, who assisted on all three outs in the first inning, finished with five assists at shortstop. Grant also played a strong defensive game at catcher.

Andover 16 East Boston 6

Mark O'Sullivan contributed three singles and four RBI, Scott Petersen three singles and two RBI, and Keith Grant belted a mammoth home run and double to power Post 8 to the victory at Merrimack College.

Visiting East Boston jumped to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first, but Andover tied it 3-3 in the second and took the lead for good when Grant launched his bases-empty blast beyond the center field fence in the bottom of the third.

The locals were protecting a slim 8-6 lead before exploding for eight runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Ben Gibson's three-run double highlighted the sixth, while Ted Payne contributed a triple and single to the attack.

Lefthander Dan Gosselin earned his first victory with five innings of strong relief, scattering four hits, fanning seven, walking two and yielding two earned runs.

Defensive standouts were Ryan Hanigan at third base and Steve Vickers at first.

Andover 15 Haverhill 8

Post 8 scored in every inning except the third at Merrimack College, erasing a 2-0 deficit with six runs in the bottom of the first and four more in the second against Haverhill Post 4.

In the six-run first, leadoff batter Ben Gibson was hit by a pitch, Ted Payne

Games tripled to open the second and crossed on Ben Urbelis' infield out for a 7-1 advantage.

After North Andover scored three in the third, the winners retaliated with four to make it 11-4.

Matt Beechinor tripled before Mark Matos ripped an RBI single, stole second and stole third. Phil Bancroft walked and stole second, Chris Krey laced a two-run single and the final run of the inning crossed on a passed ball.

The lead jumped to 13-4 in the fourth as Timko belted a bases-empty home run to right-center-field. Mark Matos walked, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Bancroft's single.

North Andover chipped away and inched within 13-8 midway through the sixth, but Andover notched its final four runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Timko singled, Mike Tonelli reached on a fielder's choice, Mark Matos was safe on an error, Chris Cataldo clouted a run-scoring double, Krey spanked an RBI single and the last run crossed on a passed ball.

North Andover added its final two runs in the seventh.

Righthander Mark Matos, the first of four Andover pitchers, earned the victory with five innings of six-hit work. He struck out six, walked three and allowed four earned runs.

Krey allowed one hit, one run, walked one and whiffed one while pitching the sixth.

Lefthander Justin Games pitched one-third of an inning, but when he experienced control problems Jorge Matos came on to get the final two outs of the game.

Mark Matos led the 17-hit Andover assault with three safeties, four RBI, four runs scored and four stolen bases.

Timko and Games almost hit for the cycle, Timko with a single, double, home run and Games with a single, double and triple. Timko contributed two RBI while both he and Games scored twice.

Krey added two hits and three RBI.

The loss eliminated North Andover (0-2).

Methuen West National 14 Andover 6

Andover held a 2-0 lead after a half-inning, and trailed only 9-6 before MWN closed it out with five runs in the bottom of the sixth at the Burnham Road Field in Methuen.

The loser's bracket setback ousted the Andover Senior 14-15 All-Stars from the tourney.

The locals, who laced 14 hits in the game but left a number of runners stranded in scoring position, took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first.

Leadoff batter Justin Games singled, stole second and moved to third on the first of four hits by John Iorio.

Games scored on a delayed double steal, with Iorio taking second, and Mike Tonelli followed with an RBI single.

Methuen West National tied it with two runs in the bottom of the first, added two more in the second, and built the lead to 8-2 with four runs in the fourth.

Andover battled back with two runs in the fifth, loading the bases on singles by Mark Matos, Iorio and a one-out walk to Tonelli.

Matt Beechinor laced an RBI single, Chris Krey's fielder's choice grounded a run at home, and Ben Urbelis walked to force home a run.

Andover left the bases jammed, however, when the next batter grounded sharply to third and the MWN fielder tagged the bag for the final out.

In the sixth Games singled, stole second and scored on Iorio's double. Tonelli reached on an error to chase home the final run and trim the deficit to 9-6.

Methuen West National put it away in the home half with the five-run outburst, and Andover did not score in the top of the seventh.

Krey pitched the first 5 1/3 innings before Steve Stone came on to get the final two outs in the pivotal sixth.

Iorio finished 4-for-4 with a double and three singles, while Games lashed three singles and stole three bases.

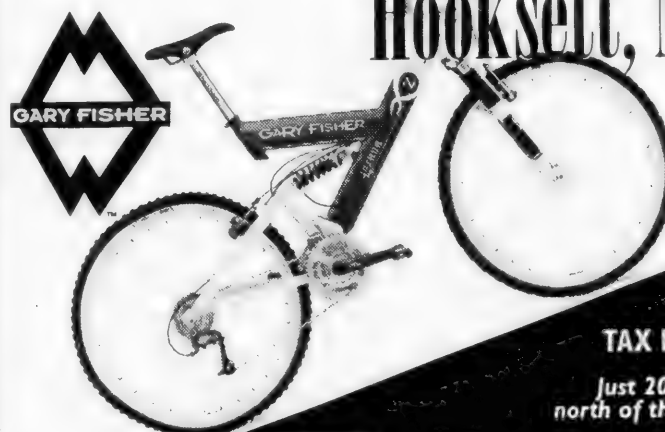

Tonelli and Beechinor spanked two singles each, and rounding out the offense with one safety apiece were Mark Matos, Jorge Matos and Adam Perry.

Games also played a strong defensive game in center field.

beat out a bunt single, Mark O'Sullivan walked to load the bases, and Keith Grant walked to force home a run.

Scott Petersen laid down a safety squeeze bunt, and three runs scored when the Haverhill third baseman threw the ball wildly into right field.

Rob Busby was hit by a pitch, and Rick Johnson capped the uprising with a two-run single.

Lefthander Busby, the first of three Post 8 pitchers, worked 4 1/3 innings for the win. O'Sullivan (1 2/3 innings) and Jason Daley (one inning) were the relievers.

Petersen finished with two hits, including a double, while Steve Vickers and Rick Johnson also stroked two safeties each.

Defensively, shortstop Johnson, second baseman Petersen and first baseman Vickers pulled off a pair of 6-4-3 doubleplays and Johnson handled eight total chances flawlessly.

Beverly 12

Andover 10

A 10-run third inning helped visiting Post 331 build a seemingly-safe 12-0 lead, but Andover chipped away and almost pulled it out with five runs in the fifth, one in the sixth and four in the seventh at Merrimack College.

The tying runs were at second and third base, the winning run at the plate, with two down in the bottom of the seventh. But a groundout to short ended the game and a 12-game Post 8 win streak.

Steve Vickers contributed a double, two singles and two RBI, Mark O'Sullivan three singles and two RBI, and Ryan Hanigan went 3-for-3 with a double for Andover.

Rick Johnson collected two RBI with a double and single and Dan Gosselin lashed two singles.

Gosselin pitched four strong innings in relief of starter Mark Rocca, allowing only one hit and no runs while whiffing four and walking three.

Andover 14

Methuen 4

In the second game of a Zone 8A doubleheader at Merrimack College, the locals erased a 4-3 deficit with an 11-run explosion in the fifth.

The big inning opened with a single by Steve Vickers, walks to Mark O'Sullivan and Keith Grant, an RBI bunt single by Rob Busby and a two-run single by Ryan Hanigan.

Later in the stanza run-scoring singles were laced by Ted Payne, O'Sullivan, Scott Petersen, Busby and Rick Johnson.

O'Sullivan finished with a triple and two singles, Vickers ripped a double and single, and contributing two safeties each were Hanigan, Grant and Busby.

Hanigan also played a strong defensive game at catcher.

Ted Payne notched the pitching victory, spacing nine hits and fanning four over six innings. Mark Rocca mopped up with a 1-2-3 seventh in relief, striking out one.

Andover 16

Methuen 9

Post 122 hung tough for most of the opening game in the twinbill, until Andover snapped a 9-9 tie with three runs in the sixth and four insurance runs in the seventh.

Keith Grant collected three RBI for Post 8 with a double and triple, while Dan Gosselin drove home two runs with a double and triple.

Steve Vickers laced three singles for 3 RBI, winning pitcher Mark O'Sullivan had two hits and two ribbies, Rick Johnson two hits and two runs scored, and Ted Payne lashed three safeties.

O'Sullivan pitched the first six innings for the victory, surrendering eight hits while fanning eight and walking two.

Jason Daley faced three batters in the seventh, one reaching on an error before being erased on a game-ending double-play.

The winners turned 5-4-3 and 4-6-3 twin-killings involving infielders Payne (third), Johnson (short), Petersen (second) and Vickers (first).

Andover 2

Lynn Gautreau 1

The Post 8 bats were held in check, for one of the few times this season, by hard-luck losing pitcher Joe Comeau.

Mark O'Sullivan

But 16-year-old Andover hurler Mark Rocca, helped immensely by a series of spectacular run-saving defensive plays from centerfielder Rob Busby, earned the mound win. Rocca worked six innings of four-hit ball, whiffing three and walking one.

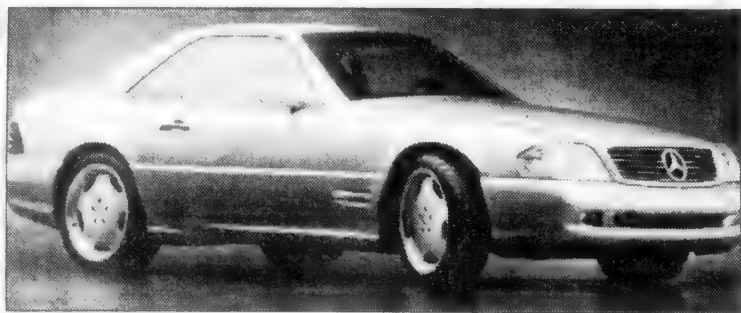

Mark O'Sullivan earned the save, yielding one bloop single in the seventh while also striking out the side.

Lynn Gautreau (6-4 entering the game) inched ahead 1-0 in the top of the fourth at Andover High, but the locals rallied for the tying run in the fifth and the game-winner in the sixth.

Scott Petersen slapped a one-out

Post 8

single in the fifth, took second on an infield out, and scored when Busby hammered a long triple to right-center.

The winning run came when Ted Payne blasted a one-out triple to left-center in the sixth, and Steve Vickers lofted a sacrifice fly.

Post 8 managed only four hits, including a Keith Grant double in the second.

Busby, playing center-field for the first time during the Legion season, made three spectacular catches.

The first was a diving stab in left-center and the last a back-to-the-plate over-the-shoulder grab on the run.

He also made a body fully-extended tumbling catch with a runner at second base and one out, bouncing up for a throw to complete the double play.

"The runner had already rounded third base thinking the ball would never be caught," said Iarrobino.

"Because this was our only home game at the high school field, I thought it would make things easier on our guys if I put them in the same positions they played for Andover High. That's why Busby was in center and O'Sullivan in left."

Grant also played a solid defensive game at catcher.

Andover 8 North Andover 5

Rob Busby went the distance on the mound and Post 8 belted four bases-empty home runs to key this victory over NA Post 219 at the North Andover Middle School field.

Busby scattered eight hits, struck out six and walked two.

Andover chipped away in every inning, scoring one run six times and two runs in the top of the second.

Rick Johnson's homer in the fourth (his first) snapped a 4-4 tie and gave the winners a lead they never relinquished.

Other solo homers were clubbed by Ryan Hanigan (first), Steve Vickers (second) and Keith Grant (second).

Vickers had three hits and two RBI, Grant two hits and two RBI, and Ted Payne drove in two runs with a triple and single.

Andover pulled off a pair of 6-4-3 doubleplays

(Johnson-Scott Petersen-Vickers) in the fourth and seventh innings to support southpaw Busby.

Betty Wong in the lobby at Lily Wong's

Lily Wong's

Lily Wong's serves delicious Cantonese, Szechuan and Polynesian cuisine and is conveniently located on the North Andover/Middleton border.

Owner Betty Wong retired for December and January, but is now back overseeing operations at Lily Wong's. For more than 20 years Betty has served up favorites such as boneless spareribs, pu pu platters, mixed vegetables, Szechuan pork, two-flavor shrimp, orange flavored chicken and sesame crisp chicken.

Lily Wong's has a new chef overseeing kitchen operations and preparing several new specialty dishes. Of course, the menu will continue to offer popular house dishes, such as Sesame Noodles with chicken and the Beijing duck, the most celebrated of Mandarin dishes with traditional hoisin sauce with scallion brushes, cucumber slivers and delicately steamed pancakes for wrapping.

Lily Wong's has a large selection of hot and spicy dishes. In deference to today's health-conscious diner, Lily Wong's uses only vegetable oil in its food preparation and offers a variety of vegetarian dishes. Lunch and dinner specials are served daily, and a variety of subs are now available in the lounge, which has a full bar.

Catering of both Chinese and American foods is available, and all items on the menu are also available for take-out. Lily Wong's is now taking reservations for privately catered holiday parties, both in the restaurant and at outside locations. In addition to the dining room and lounge at Lily Wong's, there is a function room with a dance floor and a stage for a band.

Lily Wong's is located at 323 N. Main St. (Route 114), Middleton, just a few miles and a few minutes from downtown Andover.

Convenient parking is available. Hours are Monday through Wednesday, 11:30 a.m. to midnight, and Thursday through Sunday, 11:30 a.m. to 1 a.m. Telephone (508) 777-7200, or fax (508) 774-5211. 7/17/97

Total Confusion program highlight

It's Six Flags, Baby!!!

It's the AYS Summer Staff, here to let you know about the best trip of the season - Six Flags, Baby!!! This unbelievable trip will carry you and 39 of your friends on a luxury coach with air conditioning, reclining seats and a VCR, in style all the way to the world famous Jellystone Campground.

This "hotel without walls" has everything a recreational camper could want: pool, sand volleyball court, basketball courts, and even a rec room with video games. From Jellystone Campground we will head to the fantastic world of Six Flags over New Jersey, featuring the Batman and Robin "Chiller" - which hurls two side-by-side trains at up to 65 mph. This great trip leaves Aug. 6 and returns Aug. 7, giving you two amazing days at the park. For more information, call Andover Youth Services at 623-8241, or come in and sign up today at the Department of Community Services office. This trip is first-come, first-served, and the deadline to sign up is next Friday, July 25.

Total Confusion is the huge-est line-up of trips for young people ages 11-15. We have trips for almost every day of the week this summer. So, next time you think there's nothing to do this summer, think again.

Total Confusion is where it's at this summer.

In addition to the huge summer trip list (above), there are a number of other activities planned. There is a boys' lacrosse clinic, girls' lacrosse clinic, girls' lacrosse summer session, boys' lacrosse summer session, girls' recreational basketball league, national parks trips and even girls-only trips.

To get more information on what's going on this summer, or to find out more about the trips or prices, stop by and pick up a detailed packet at the DCS office, AYS office, or give us a call at 623-8241.

► For more information about WHAT'S UP, call Bill Fahey, Andover Youth Services coordinator, at 623-8241; or Jack Grady, Townsman assistant editor, at 475-1943.

◀ School's finally out... So what is there to do? How about cruising the water slides at Water Country, playing lazer tag at Goodtimes, hiking some of the highest peaks of the White Mountains, screaming down the Bromley Alpine Slide, hanging out at the beach, mountain-biking, or even a camping trip to Six Flags...

Sutton Square Grille

The new Sutton Square Grille in North Andover offers the fundamentals - good homemade food at fair prices with good service in a clean and comfortable establishment.

Stephen Alfano and Christopher Beale, both of Methuen, recently opened Sutton Square Grille in a brand new building on Sutton Street at the foot of Main Street.

"For the value, I don't think we can be beat. It's the best place around. It's sensational. It's a good formula," says Stephen.

The duo each has 30 years of restaurant experience between them, including more than a dozen years each at Ninety Nine restaurants. They have seen what works and what doesn't. Together they formed the All-American Restaurant Group Inc. and opened the first of what they hope will be a chain of restaurants. They offer both fast-food for those on the go, and complete, relaxed sit-down meals for those who like to sip their cup of coffee.

"This is a concept we're looking to develop," Stephen says. "Really it's based on a lot of homemade foods - pasta sauces, homemade baked beans, pasta salads - and the public has responded phenomenally."

Breakfast is great and customers have literally lined up out the door for lunch. "We are looking to pickup dinner business," Stephen says.

They offer daily dinner specials, including shrimp scampi Wednesdays and, in an effort to restore an old standby, English-style fish and chips wrapped in paper on Fridays.

"This is the nicest spot in downtown North Andover because I've got 32 parking spaces," Stephen says.

Sutton Square Grille is at 166 Sutton St. (at the foot of Main Street), North Andover. The grill is on at 6:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, and 7 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Closing time is 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, and noon Sundays.

HUNNEMAN'S EXCEPTIONAL PEOPLE

Meet... Mary Peck
CRS, GRI
Relocation Specialist

Her customers say, "Mary Peck really does her homework!" To a teacher, this is the ultimate compliment. Mary's decision in 1985 to pursue a career in real estate came as a natural progression from her background as an educator. After earning a master's degree in education and teaching for ten years, she founded the Andover School of Montessori, which still prospers today in its magnificent new home. A love of teaching and learning has directed Mary's own professional development, and has helped her integrate her skills as a thorough and exhaustive researcher as well as an informed advisor on public and private school systems.

Successfully meeting the challenges of a demanding career, Mary has consistently achieved multi-million dollar sales status. Recognition of her 1996 performance gained her entrance into Hunneman's Gold Circle and, more recently, Coldwell Banker's prestigious Diamond Society where she joined the top 10% of the company's sales associates across the country. For the past twelve years, Mary's mission has remained unchanged: to educate people and assist them in realizing their goals and dreams by making informed choices in their real estate transactions.
